WEEKE CASE BASIS FOR FIRING CHIEF YOUNG AND OTHERS

Affidavits of Alleged Intimidation Filed With U. S. Commissioner Bevington by Two Women Witnesses

PROSECUTIONS ARE PROMISED IN CASE

Capt. Martin O'Brien Succeeds Young — Capts. Pickel and Hess, and Sergts. Phillips, Silverman and Mealy Also Suspended

Investigation by the Post-Dispatch today of the Police Board's statement that charges preferred by Government officials caused the suspension yesterday afternoon of Police Chief William Young, two Captains and three Sergeants, showed that the naturalization case of Henry L. (Hank) Weeke, Commissioner of Weights and Measures, a German enemy alien, was an important factor, and seemingly the controlling one, in bringing about the suspensions.

Besides Chief Young, the officers suspended were Capt. John N. Pickel, Dayton Street District; Capt. William Hess, Laclede Avenue District, and Sergts. Sidney H. Phillips, Morris Silverman and John J. Mealy, all of the Dayton Street District. They were all asked to submit their resignations and were told that charges had been preferred against them by the Government.

Morris R. Bevington, chief naturalization examiner, mentioned the intimidation of witnesses on Oct. 4 in open court, when the Weeke case was continued. Since then he has been laying the facts before the Police Board, most of his conferences having been with President Mansur. Bevington today refused to discuss the police suspensions. At the Federal Building it was said prosecutions would result from the intimidation charges in the Weeke case.

The Naturalization Examiner's office has been making a vigorous investigation as to Weeke's qualifications for citizenship and has collected evidence on which to oppose it on the ground that he is morally unfit for naturalization.

It is known that Bevington has affidavits signed by women resort keepers in the neighborhood of Leonard and Lucas avenues, that their lives had been threatened because they had been summoned as witnesses for the Government in the Weeke case. Bevington had asked that special police protection be given to these women to prevent them from being intimidated.

The women mentioned in this connection are Bettie Ray, a negress, of 617 Leonard avenue, and a woman known as Madame Cole, 717 Leonard avenue, both of whom for years, by one means and another, have until recently been able to conduct disorderly resorts in the city. Both have openly boasted of their influence with politicians.

Affidavit by Negress.

One of the statements in Bettie Ray's affidavit is that after she was summoned as a Government witness in opposition to Weeke's naturalization, she was warned by Capt. Pickel that she would have to "get out of town."

The district in which the Ray and Cole women live was put under police surveillance about a year ago at the request of the War Department as a protection to soldiers quartered at the Central Y. M. C. A., a few blocks away.

Entry in Desk Book.

In the desk book at the Dayton Street Police Station today a Post-Dispatch reporter found this entry in Capt. Pickel's handwriting:

Sept. 2, 3 p. m.—Sergeants of Precinct 3 will discontinue detail around houses of prostitution until furthers orders, at the request of Mr. Bevington of the United States Naturalization Office.

"(Sig.) CAPT."

At the station it was said that on the morning this entry was made Capt. Pickel received a letter on stationery of the Naturalization Office and that he entered the station with this letter in his hand and said: "I have got to go and see Mr. Bevington." This letter is not in the sta-

MILITARY EVACUATION OF BRUSSELS IS REPORTED

Withdrawal by German Invaders Said by Belgian Deputy to Have Been Begun.

By the Associated Press.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 19.—The military evacuation of Brussels by the Germans has already been begun, according to M. Heinrich, an Activist Belgian deputy. The deputy is quoted thus by the correspondent of the Nieuwe Van Den Dags, at Rosendaal, on the Dutch frontier, who says the deputy himself has arrived at Brussels. The evacuation, it is declared, does not refer to the civilian population.

The official text of President Wilson's note to Germany has been received and an agreement has been reached in principle regarding the reply, the Frankfort Gazette states.

The Foreign Affairs Committee, the newspaper adds, has been made acquainted with the definite terms of the reply which it is understood will be handed to the Swiss Minister at Berlin Saturday afternoon or evening.

Switzerland Hears of Outbreaks and of Posters Abusing Former Military Favorites.

By the Associated Press.

ZURICH, Oct. 19.—Official statements issued by the Entente War Offices no longer are published in Germany.

Rumors reaching here are to the effect that there have been outbreaks among the soldiers at the front.

Abusive placards concerning the Emperor, the Crown Prince, Field Marshal von Hindenburg and Gen. Ludendorff have been posted in various railroad stations in Germany.

"UNSINKABLE" SHIP LUCIA SUNK BY SUBMARINE, SHIPPERS HEAR

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—The American steamship Lucia, equipped with buoyancy boxes, and supposed to be unsinkable, has been sunk, according to word received here today in shipping circles.

She was torpedoed by a submarine in the Atlantic, but details as to the date of the sinking and the fate of the crew are lacking.

CITY $4,800,000 SHORT OF LOAN GOAL ON LAST DAY

Subscriptions Totaled Up to Last Night Were $71,020,450 of a Quota of $75,856,900.

DISTRICT AGAIN LEADS U. S. "OVER THE TOP"

Repeats Its Third Campaign Performance and Pledges $381,200 More Than Required $260,000,000.

This is the last day of the Liberty Loan, and St. Louis must subscribe about $4,800,000 before midnight in order to attain its quota, which is $75,856,900. The Eighth Federal Reserve District, of which St. Louis is headquarters, went "over the top" last night, due to oversubscriptions of cities in the district other than St. Louis.

The Liberty Loan organization announced this morning that the sum pledged in this city up to last midnight totaled $71,020,450, or an increase of $5,296,150 over yesterday's announcement. The amount remaining to be raised is $4,836,450.

That the people of St. Louis have responded almost universally to the plea for doubling their subscriptions is indicated, it was said, by the number of individual subscribers, which now totals 208,132.

In the Third Liberty Loan Campaign 242,804 St. Louisans pledged $39,000,000, about half of the present quota. One subscription announced today was that of the Jefferson-Gravois Bank, for $100,000.

District $381,200 Oversubscribed.

The district's quota is $260,000,000, and the subscriptions last night totaled $260,381,200, making this district the first of the 12 in the country to reach its quota. The St. Louis district achieved the same distinction in the Third Liberty Loan campaign.

Every energy of the organization is set today at the task of raising the remainder principally by inducing subscribers to increase their subscriptions.

Many corporations announced yesterday that they had doubled their subscriptions. The Missouri State Life Insurance Co. announced that it had subscribed for $800,000 more bonds, in addition to its original subscription of $1,000,000. The Levis & Zukoski Mercantile Co. increased its subscription for the third time, making the total $100,000.

Tank to "Take Berlin."

In the expectation that the city will go "over the top" sometime this afternoon, the loan organization has arranged for a celebration, to consist of "Taking Berlin." The tank, Humerusher, has each day proceeded to the sucessive "stops" along Olive street on the way to the "German capital," each station representing an advance of the city toward its quota. The final stop, "Berlin," is in Twelfth street, and the tank is to make its "capture" to the music of a Great Lakes band.

The Bankers' Life Insurance Co., of Des Moines, Io., today contributed $10,000 to St. Louis' quota through its local agent, O. A. Schenk. The St. Louis Tin and Sheet Metal Co. more than trebled its original subscription, raising it from $6000 to $25,000.

Credit to Other Cities.

It was frankly pointed out at Liberty Loan Organization headquarters today that, while St. Louis, as the head of the Eighth District, will get considerable credit because the district was the first to reach its quota, the credit really belongs to Louisville, Memphis, Little Rock, Evansville and the other cities in the district, whose oversubscriptions have made up what St. Louis lacks.

Both St. Charles County and the city have gone over the top in the fourth Liberty Loan. With a quota of $1,026,000 for the county, $1,031,500 has been subscribed by approximately 4200 firms and persons. In the city itself the quota is $305,000, with this morning's report showing sales totalling $376,000.

The Liberty Loan Association is advertising daily in the Post-Dispatch Lost and Found Columns, the numbers of lost and found Fourth Liberty Loan coupon books.

REPLY EXPECTED TO DENY GERMAN WAR ATROCITIES

Copenhagen Newspaper Says Berlin Will Also Decline to Stop U-boat Warfare Until Armistice Is Declared.

Cabinet in Session and All-Day Conference—Amsterdam Hears Note Will Come Today.

By the Associated Press.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 19.—Germany's reply to President Wilson, it is said by the Politiken, will deny the President's accusation of German cruelties and declare the submarine warfare cannot be stopped as long as there is no agreement as to an armistice.

The reply, the newspaper declares, will not reject the President's demands but will make further negotiations possible.

The German War Cabinet met at 6 o'clock last evening to decide the definite form of the German answer.

By the Associated Press.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 19.—The German reply to President Wilson probably will be dispatched on Saturday (this) afternoon, according to advices received here.

BASEL, Switzerland, Oct. 18.—There were Government conferences in Berlin yesterday that lasted all day, according to advices received here. The War Ministry held a five-hour session in which the military chiefs participated.

This Report Says Note Will Not Come for Several Days.

BERNE, Switzerland, Friday, Oct. 18.—The German reply to President Wilson will not be completed and dispatched for several days, according to the latest Berlin advices. It is expected that the Reichstag will be summoned to meet on Tuesday.

The Grand Admiral of the fleet and the chief of the Naval Staff have arrived in Berlin for consultation over the answer. It is believed that the reply will be left open for further negotiations.

The Berlin reports show the holding of a peace demonstration by thousands of workmen. On the other hand the patriotic and economic associations, including the great German manufacturers' association, have adopted resolutions urging the organization of a stubborn defense.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—(German.)—Diplomatic dispatches today, based on advices from Berlin through Basel, Switzerland, say Germany's response to President Wilson's note was held up at the last moment after a five-hour session of the War Cabinet Tuesday with all the military leaders present, and after the semi-official newspapers had announced that the reply would be sent immediately.

It was learned, the dispatches declare, that the questions involved were so serious and the conditions in Germany so disquieting, that the Imperial Government wished to take further deliberations before a final decision.

The Vorwaerts is quoted as follows:

"The German answer may not be ready before several days. The opinion of the Federal Councils Commission for Foreign Affairs will be asked for. The Government is believed to be contemplating the convoking of the great commission of the Reichstag to explain the matter to it instead of assembling the Reichstag, as had been announced."

The Vorwaerts also publishes an article which says at the factories in Berlin, the workmen openly assert that a ministry headed by Haase and Ledebour will shortly be formed to represent the working class, and be supported by the Workmen's Committees.

"MERE AUTONOMY FOR SUBJECTS NOT NOW ACCEPTABLE"

Reply Calls Attention to Fact That U. S. Has Recognized Czecho-Slovaks as a Belligerent Nation.

THAT BRINGS CHANGE IN OUR ATTITUDE

Wilson Program to Which Dual Empire Was Willing to Agree Altered by New Situation in Dual Empire.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—President Wilson has rejected the Austro-Hungarian Government's offer to conclude an armistice and negotiate peace on principles enunciated by him and has given notice that mere autonomy for Austria's subject nationalities is no longer acceptable; that they must have liberty.

He declared that the Austro-Hungarian Government must satisfy the national aspirations of its own people and that they, the people, shall be the judges of their rights and destinies.

The reply was made by Secretary Lansing yesterday through the Swedish Minister in Washington.

It calls attention to the tenth condition of peace enunciated on Jan. 8 by President Wilson, which says the people of Austria-Hungary should be accorded the freest opportunity of autonomous developments.

Refers to Czecho Nation.

The note calls attention to the recognition by the United States of the Czecho-Slovaks National Council as a de facto belligerent Government and states that this country has also recognized the justice of the nationalistic aspirations of the Jugo-Slavs for freedom.

In announcing his reply, Secretary Lansing also made public the official text of the Austro-Hungarian note. It follows:

"Legation of Sweden, Washington, D. C., Oct. 7, 1918.

"(Translation).

"Excellency:

"By order of my Government I have the honor confidentially to transmit herewith to you the following communication of the Imperial and Royal Government of Austria-Hungary to the President of the United States of America:

"The Austro-Hungarian monarchy which has waged war always and solely as a defensive war and repeatedly given documentary evidence of its readiness to stop the shedding of blood and to arrive at a just and honorable peace, hereby addresses itself to his lordship, the President of the United States of America, and offers to conclude with him and his allies an armistice on every front on land, at sea and in the air and to enter immediately upon negotiations for a peace for which the 14 points in the message of President Wilson to Congress of Jan. 8, 1918, and the four points contained in President Wilson's address of Feb. 12, 1918, should serve as a foundation and in which the viewpoints declared by President Wilson in his address of Sept. 27, 1918, will also be taken into account.

"Be pleased to accept, etc.

"W. A. F. EKENGREN.

"His excellency, Mr. Robert Lansing, Secretary of State of the United States, Washington."

Senators Pleased by Note.

The President's note rejecting the Austrian peace offer was read to members of the Senate Military Commitee today as they left their weekly conference at the War Department. Senator Hitchcock, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, one of the group, said:

"That is good stuff," and others noded their agreement.

Later Senator Hitchcock made this statement:

"It seems to me to fill the bill exactly. It lives up to the letter and spirit of our relations with these subject nationalities of Austria whom we have encouraged to seek independence.

Independency of Czecho-Slovaks Declared by the National Council.

Text of the President's Reply to the Austrian Peace Note

Sir:

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your note of the 7th instant in which you transmit a communication of the Imperial and Royal Government of Austria-Hungary to the President. I am now instructed by the President to request you to be good enough through your Government to convey to the Imperial and Royal Government the following reply:

The President deems it his duty to say to the Austro-Hungarian Government that he cannot entertain the present suggestion of that Government because of certain events of utmost importance which, occurring since the delivery of his address of the 8th of January last, have necessarily altered the attitude and responsibility of the Government of the United States. Among the 14 terms of peace which the President formulated at that time occurred the following:

"X. The peoples of Austro-Hungary, whose place among the nations we wish to see safeguarded and assured, should be accorded the freest opportunity of autonomous development."

Since that sentence was written and uttered to the Congress of the United States the Government of the United States has recognized that a state of belligerency exists between the Czecho-Slovaks and the German and Austro-Hungarian empires and that the Czecho-Slovak National Council is a de facto belligerent Government clothed with proper authority to direct the military and political affairs of the Czecho-Slovaks. It has also recognized in the fullest manner the justice of the nationalistic aspirations of the Jugo-Slavs for freedom.

The President is, therefore, no longer at liberty to accept the mere "autonomy" of these people as a basis of peace, but is obliged to insist that they, and not he, shall be the judges of what action on the part of the Austro-Hungarian Government will satisfy their aspirations and their conception of their rights and destiny as members of the family of nations.

Accept, sir, the renewed assurances of my highest consideration. ROBERT LANSING.

GERMANS FIGHT TO HOLD PIVOT WHILE RETIRING IN NORTH

Ludendorff Forced Also to Guard Against Franco-American Drive Against Weak Spot.

PARIS, Oct. 19—The Germans are still on the run. The victories of this week have obliged them to make a conversion of the front on which they are engaged, and that is a ticklish operation under the tremendous pressure to which they are being subjected.

Ludendorff is swinging back his whole right, using as a pivot the plateau through which runs the canal from the Oise to the Sombre, with the forests of De Mouael and Du Nouvion as supports to his rear. He has concehtrated all his available forces there and notwithstanding the stout blows delivered by Gens. Rawlinson and Debeney the pivot still holds.

The situation may thus be summed up as a race between the allies seeking to knock out this prop and the Germans trying to get back on the line of the Escaut and Valenciennes without too much damage. They will attempt to make a stand on this line, in all probability, as it is the shortest line available, but the odds seem to be against the enemy.

King Albert's armies are pressing Ludendorff hard. He may be driven further and faster than his plans provide for, and in addition to that he has the task of finding troops to cover another weak spot—namely, the Stenay gap, the back door to the Rhineland through Luxemburg, which is being tirelessly assailed by Gen. Gouraud and the American armies. Notwithstanding all his efforts the German commander has not been able to prevent this slow but sure Franco-American advance.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 19.—For the first time during the war, the question of Schleswig-Holstein is being handled in a serious manner by the newspapers in Denmark.

The Politiken, in a leading editorial, says the Danish border must also be corrected, in accordance with President Wilson's ideas in his 14 points, and that Denmark wants only the northern part of Schleswig, which is inhabited by her people. Confidence is expressed by the newspaper that the Government will raise the boundary question when the proper time comes.

TO FEED LIBERATED BELGIANS

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Arrangements have been made by the Belgian Relief Commission with the British Quartermaster-General for 20,000,000 emergency rations to be furnished immediately to the rescued civilian population in Belgium.

Herbert Hoover, chairman of the commission, announced that the rations would come from the stores of the British army in Belgium and would be paid for by the Relief Commission.

MORE THAN 2,000,000 MEN SENT OVERSEAS

Gen. March Also Says Allies Have Entire Belgian Coast—800 Square Miles to Holland.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—More than 2,000,000 American soldiers now have gone overseas, Gen. March told the members of the Senate Military Committee today at their War Department conference.

While the conference was in progress Gen. March was notified that the Germans had evacuated the entire Belgian coast up to the Holland boundary and that it is now in possession of the allies.

British patrols participating in the allied advance in Belgium are reported to have reached the Holland frontier opposite Bruges Gen. March was informed in today's early dispatches.

Invasion Is Increasing.

The German retirement from the Belgian coast district, Gen. March added, is increasing in breadth and speed. The movement to the rear, on the whole, he added, is extremely rapid, as illustrated by the fact that the territory evacuated in four days totals more than 800 square miles.

To the south in France, the General said, renewed attacks by Anglo-American forces opposite Douai have carried the allied line up to the hastily constructed German defensive system, which follows in a general way the Sensee Canal and marshes. No attempt to cross this barrier has yet been reported.

The Hindenburg defense system is now entirely behind the allied advance and Marshal Foch is continuing his pressure without giving the enemy the slightest opportunity for a rest.

Big Gains Made.

Gen. March did not attempt to analyze the military situation on the western front as a whole or to point out objectives of the various attacks. He called attention to the fact that the German retirement, starting last week on a 60-mile sector, between the Oise and the Argonne, had spread during the week until it affected all except 15 miles of the 250 mile front from the coast to the Meuse.

While this retirement was in progress, he said, the American army northwest of Verdun was fighting its way forward against stiff resistance. The Twenty-ninth (New Jersey, Delaware, Virginia, Maryland and District of Columbia troops) was identified as one of those operating east of the Meuse. The Eighty-fifth (Michigan and East Wisconsin) is now acting as a depot division on the line of communication, while the Eighty-fourth (Kentucky, Indiana and Southern Illinois) is reported as having just arrived in France. The Thirty-eighth Division (Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia) has not yet arrived overseas.

Reports to the War Department, Senators were informed, showed a

FRENCH HORSE PATROL REPORTED AT GHENT

Continued Rapid Progress Is Being Made in the Belgian Coast Sector and British Warships Are Shelling the Fleeing German Troops.

By the Associated Press.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 19.—British troops are approaching Sluis, on the Dutch frontier, 10 miles northeast of Bruges, say advices from Breskens. The Germans continue to retire toward Ghent.

British troops have entered the Belgian town of Eecloo, according to a dispatch from Sluis to the Telegraaf, and 6000 Germans have been shut in against the Dutch frontier.

Eecloo, is a junction on the railway from Bruges to Ghent.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Many German columns with numerous guns and automobiles traveling eastward are passing Sluis. German sentinels have abandoned their posts on the canal at Sluis.

French Capture Thielt, in Belgian Flanders.

LONDON, Friday, Oct. 18.—The French have captured the town of Thielt, in Belgian Flanders, west of Ghent, and have passed on 2000 yards east of the town.

By the Associated Press.

WITH THE ALLIED FORCES IN FLANDERS, Friday, Oct. 18, 10 p. m.—French cavalry were reported tonight to have reached the outskirts of Ghent. There is no official confirmation.

The infantry is pushing fast after the mounted forces.

The reports indicate a continuation of the rapid allied advance in the Belgian coast sector.

The British are meeting with little opposition in the Lille salient and to the northward. In most places difficulty is found in keeping contact with the enemy's main forces, owing to the rapidity of the retreat.

It was reported last night that French patrols had entered the outskirts of Bruges. This has not been confirmed.

French Continue Advance on Line East of Guise.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Oct. 19.—The French continue successfully their advance south of Wassigny and east of the line of Guise, according to the War Office statement today. They have reached the Sambre Canal on a front of nearly nine miles south of Hannappes.

Along the canal the French hold the towns of Hannappes, Tupigny and Noya. Since Oct. 17 in this region the French first army has taken more than 3000 prisoners and 20 guns.

East of Rethel the Germans have been driven from the territory between the Ardennes Canal and the Aisne, west of Attigny. The town of Amblly-Haut has been captured in addition to prisoners.

The statement reads:

"During the night the troops of the first army pursued their victorious advance and threw back in disorder the enemy troops who attempted at all costs to maintain their position on the west bank of the Oise. Up to the present the French have reached the canal from east of the forest of Andigny to the north of Hauteville. Hannappes, Tupigny and Noyales are in our hands, as well as other places bordering on the canal. In the course of the fighting in this region since Oct. 17 we have taken more than 3000 prisoners. We also have captured 20 guns, a large number of machine guns and important war material, including an entire train loaded with munitions.

"On the front of the Aisne we have cleared out the enemy from the region between the canal and the Aisne west of Attigny. We have taken possession of Ambly-Haut and have captured prisoners."

REPORTS FROM THE ALLIED WAR FRONTS ON GAIN YESTERDAY

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Friday, Oct. 18.—In continuation of the offensive south of Le Cateau, Field Marshal Haig's troops have captured the village of Wassigny, the British commander reported today.

The village of Ribeauville, north of Wassigny, has been taken and British troops have entered Bazuel, still further north. More than 1200 prisoners and a few guns were taken in the day's fighting.

The British are continuing their advance in Flanders north of the Sensee Canal, Field Marshal Haig announces. Southeast of Le Cateau, where British and American troops are operating, Mazinghien has been captured.

The British have advanced more than six miles east of Douai and they are in contact with the Germans east of Vrei and Catelet in that area.

The text of the statement reads:

"We made progress yesterday evening east of Bohain capturing the village of Mazinghein and completing the capture of Bazuel.

"North of the Sensee Canal the advance continued. We have driven the German rear guards from Emerchicourt and Pecquencourt, and are in contact with the enemy east of Vred and Cattelet."

"Between the Sensee Canal and the Lys River the retreat forced on the enemy by the allied successes continued. Our troops, pressing forward despite considerable opposition from the enemy's rear guards, have realized a further advance of over five miles.

"Further north our advance detachments have crossed the Marcqu River between Sainghin and Chereng (eight miles east of Lille) and are approaching the latter village."

"The troops of the first army under command of Gen. Horne have completed the capture of Douai and have made progress east of the town. On this front we now have reached the general line of Marquette-En-Ostrevant, Masny, Bersee, Fretin, Sainghin and Ascq. North of Ascq the troops of Gen. Plumer's second army are east of Roubaix and Tourcoing."

Belgians' Line as It Ran Last Night.

HAVRE, Friday, Oct. 18.—In the capture of Oostroosebeke today Belgian troops took 200 prisoners, says a supplementary official statement from the Belgian War Office tonight. In the march on Bruges, Belgian cavalry captured 300 Germans. The statement reads:

"The Belgian troops resumed the advance this morning in conjunction with the French. The Belgians on the north had reached the general line of Ostend, Oudenburg, Ettelghem, Verssenaere, St. Andre and St. Michel.

BERLIN ADMITS LOSS OF BELGIAN AND FRENCH CITIES

German Official Headquarters Statement Names 5 as Being Evacuated.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, via London, Oct. 18.—The Germans have evacuated Ostend, Tourcoing, Roubaix, Lille and Douai, according to the official statement from general headquarters today.

Between Le Cateau and the Oise, British, French and Americans attempted to break through. On both sides of Le Cateau, the statement adds, attacks broke down.

Tanks Manned by Americans Lead Assault.

By the Associated Press.

WITH THE ALLIED ARMIES EAST OF CAMBRAI, Friday, Oct. 18.—Tanks manned by Americans trained in England led the assault against the German forces endangered on the east side of the Selle River yesterday. They were faced by German marine divisions which put up a hard fight. According to latest reports the allies are still gaining ground against the desperate resistance of the enemy. At one point the Germans delivered a counter attack and momentarily gained ground, but the tanks passed over and beyond the high ground where the Germans were making their stand and quickly drove the enemy out of his trenches.

American engineers working under heavy machine-gun fire placed bridges across the river and then the American and British infantry swept across. The tanks helped to keep down the enemy fire until the engineers had finished their work and then went over with the infantry.

Whole Belgian Coast Captured by Allies.

LONDON, Oct. 19, 2:30 p. m.—Allied forces have captured the whole of the Belgian coast, according to information received by the Evening News. The allied line now extends from a position on the Dutch coast to the East of Bruges and to the south of Courtrai.

British-Belgian Front Moving Rapidly Forward.

By the Associated Press.

WITH THE ALLIED FORCES IN BELGIUM, Oct. 19, (Afternoon).—The towns of Chereng, Masny, Vred and Cattelet have been captured by the allied forces.

The entire British and Belgian front still was moving forward this morning. The Belgians were gaining steadily, and the British in the north, advancing in the face of considerable opposition, occupied the Herseaux-Mouscron-Railway, to the east and north of the French liberated towns of Tourcoing and Roubaix.

vast improvement in the airplane situation, with production improving at a rate which they regarded as very favorable. The Senators were told that the Germans are putting up a stiff resistance on the American line northwest of Metz, between Argonne Forest and the Meuse. On this front, which is about 20 miles in length, the Americans face 250,000 Germans, who are making desperate efforts to prevent the Americans from obtaining a sweeping victory.

American officers who have returned from the front informed the Senators that American aviators are now big factors in the fighting. There is no question, they declared, but that the allies are supreme in the air.

Advices received by the department tend to discredit reports that the German morale has been seriously impaired by the American successes. American officers who saw the St. Mihiel drive, said the enemy warehouses were found to contain good blankets and good shoes, and that the morale of Germans taken prisoners was good.

One Killed, Eight Hurt in Gas Explosion.

By the Associated Press.

PETERSBURG, Va., Oct. 19.—One man killed and eight injured seriously at Camp Lee last night by an explosion of high-power gas explosive shells, while preparations were being made for a practice night attack under gas conditions for the student officers. The explosion shook buildings in Petersburg and created great excitement here.

Map Showing Territory Through Which Germans Must Retreat

Germans Must Retreat to Meuse, and Their Line May Be Broken in North, Says Simonds

Breach in Enemy's Front as He Retires Across Belgium Would Mean Invasion of German Soil, Critic Points Out.

By FRANK H. SIMONDS,
Author of "The Great War."

The evacuation of the Belgian coast is obviously the first installment of a wide-swinging German retreat which cannot now be more than temporarily interrupted until the defeated armies stand on the line of the Meuse River, from the Dutch frontier southward. This line passes through Liege, Huy, Namur, Dinant, Givet, Mezieres and Sedan, and then bends eastward from the Meuse, through the little fortress town of Montmedy, to the great German barrier of Thionville-Metz, inside the German frontier.

Before they reach this line the Germans will be able to make brief halts upon several other lines. They can, for example, stand for a little longer on the line of the Scheldt, from Valenciennes to Ghent, but the upward thrust of the British from Le Cateau, where they are already east of the Scheldt, would make a long stay dangerous, as it would threaten the flank and rear of all the German forces to the north, menacing their rearward communications with Brussels and Germany.

Strong Defense Line.

A more elaborate defense line has been prepared to the eastward, resting in the north on the forts of Antwerp and thence on the east bank of the Scheldt, and the Ruppel, curving around Brussels, which it does not cover, and stretching southward to the fortress of Namur, bordering the east bank of the Dyle, for a considerable distance. South of Namur it follows the line of the Meuse and of Metz. This is a very strong system, which has been elaborately fortified, but its weakness lies in the fact that a successful penetration north of Namur would expose the Germans still further to the north, between Nouvain and Antwerp, to envelopment and capture, since it would cut their lines of communication and retreat.

It is only at the Meuse that the Germans will have a defensive line of really great natural strength, for the Meuse is a considerable stream below Namur. They would have the forts of Liege and Namur, which have been reconstructed as supporting works, and good and easy rearward communications with Germany. If the Germans are to make any successful stand west of the Rhine they must make it on the Meuse, and they have long recognized this fact, since they have insisted in days of prosperity that the new frontier of Germany should begin at the Meuse River.

Despite their very heavy defeats, the Germans have, up to the present moment, preserved their armies intact, although the latest collapse between the Scheldt and the sea may turn out to be fatal to the whole scheme of an orderly retreat to the Meuse line. Unquestionably they have foreseen the necessity of the retreat for some weeks and have already brought back much of their heavy artillery and material to the ultimate line of defense. Short of a disaster, always possible when troops have been pounded for so long a time as the German armies have been, we may expect to see a fairly rapid evacuation of most of Belgium in the next fortnight, including Antwerp and Brussels.

Concentrated behind the Meuse, if they can get there safely, the Germans will have shortened their front upward of a hundred miles, as compared with the front of last July. Even more important for them will be the fact that they will have between them and the terrible tank a water barrier, which will for a time, at least, hold up the operation of what has become a most dangerous weapon of their foes. All things considered, the Germans seem to have about an even chance of getting behind the Meuse in safety, provided their home front does not crumble before their battle line collapses.

But the line of the Meuse can only be a way station on the road to the Rhine, because once the Germans have retired to it nothing is more certain than that Foch will renew his attack, not in Belgium, but in Alsace-Lorraine, where there is no water barrier and the opportunity for a successful invasion, both through the Belfort gap and between Metz and Strassburg, is unmistakable. A stand at the Meuse will be more than an effort to check pursuit while the diplomatic end of the German machine can make terms which will save the military branch from complete destruction.

Possibility of Disaster.

While the German armies north of Valenciennes are swinging back, it is a matter of life and death for the balance of the enemy forces between Valenciennes and Dun, and particularly between the Argonne and the Meuse, where our two American armies are fighting northward to hold back the flood, which, if it should break through, would swirl behind the retreating northern armies, envelop them against the Dutch frontier and repeat on an enormous scale the French disaster of Sedan. For the next few days this possibility will be real, if remote. It will be inescapable, if there is any collapse anywhere.

The Germans are thus approaching the last ditch, where they must stand, if they are to prevent an invasion of Germany at the point where they can least resist invasion, namely, along the Belgian frontier west of Aix la Chapelle. Such an invasion would meet next to no natural obstacle and no military barrier in the way of fortresses until it reached the Rhine before Cologne. It would have an open roadway to the great industrial regions of the Lower Rhine. In a word, the Belgian frontier is the only fatally weak spot in Germany's defensive armor.

And if the Germans cannot rally at the Meuse and hold that barrier, the present campaign will go forward through the winter and in all human probability Foch will be in on German soil and in Aix la Chapelle before Christmas. Surrender, a Sedan or a failure to hold the Meuse line—these are three possibilities which the German must now face immediately. But if he is able temporarily to hold the Meuse line, then invasion from the south in an early campaign of 1919, will, in any event, compel him to draw his forces back to the Rhine.

PERSHING FORCING GERMANS TO NEW LINES OF DEFENSE

Americans Continue to Improve Their Positions in the Region of Bentheville and the Wood.

WORKING FOR STAND FEW MILES BEYOND

Infernal Machines Found That Explode Charge Only When Certain Temperature Is Reached.

By the Associated Press.

WITH THE AMERICAN FORCES NORTHWEST OF VERDUN, Oct. 19.—Gen. Pershing's troops today continued to improve their positions in the region of Bantheville and the some indications that the Germans are planning a withdrawal to what are believed to be new lines of defenses a few miles in the rear.

This possible retirement of the Germans is believed to be due to the menacing position of the Americans at the edge of the Kriemheld line below Landers-et-St. Georges, where Gen. Pershing's men are steadily advancing.

The Germans early this morning launched a counter-attack upon the American positions in La Grande Montgane. The attack, what preceded by a heavy artillery fire, was repulsed.

The Germans this morning continued their harassing fire east of the River Meuse.

Yankees Easily Repulse the German Counter Attacks.

By the Associated Press.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY NORTHWEST OF VERDUN, Friday, Oct. 18.—Feeble counter attacks were made by the Germans this morning east of the Meuse river, but they were easily repulsed. There were lively artillery duels during the morning, but little infantry fighting.

The Germans continue to reply chiefly on machine guns to check the Americans but even these weapons are almost quiet in the eastern portion of this sector.

American patrols have been active in the center and on the left wing, where they have established outpost lines north of Cote de. Chatillon They have partially cleaned out Loges wood and penetrated further into Bantheville Wood. Because of the weather the enemy has been using many gas shells recently. The American guns opened quite a heavy bombardment at seven o'clock this morning.

In captured dugouts in the territory recently taken by the Americans infernal machines have been discovered. These were operated by mercury thermometers, the bomb exploding when a certain temperature is reached.

During the advance yesterday the American troops captured 20,000 gallons of German gasoline.

Americans Gain Success by Surprising the Germans.

By the Associated Press.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY NORTHWEST OF VERDUN, Friday, Oct. 18, 4 p. m.—The Americans sprang another surprise over the Germans today, the infantry advancing north of Romagne and taking Bantheville without artillery preparation.

The Americans pushed the German infantry and machine gunners back after fighting that lasted all day.

Northwest of Grand Pre the Americans captured Talma farm in the face of a stiff machine-gun resistance. There was much fighting at close quarters throughout the day.

By the Associated Press.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY NORTHWEST OF VERDUN, Oct. 19, 11 a. m.—All the aviators who took part in the all-American bombing expedition behind the German lines northwest of Verdun Friday have been accounted for. One of the 140 airplanes taking part in the raid had been reported missing but it returned during the night.

Latest reports from the different squadrons show that the scout planes in protecting the bombers brought down 12 enemy machines.

Observers report that excellent results were obtained at the various points bombed by the expedition. While the bombing squadrons attacked the towns and villages, two squadrons of pursuit airplanes flying at low altitude attacked enemy troops along the roadways with small bombs and machine gun fire.

Pershing Reports Successes and Capture of Prisoners.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Capture by the Americans of 1000 additional prisoners in the fighting west of the Meuse was reported in Gen. Pershing's communication for Thursday. There was severe fighting on the entire front of Gen. Liggett's first army.

The statement follows: "Section A—Severe fighting has continued on the entire front of the first army. We have broken up counter attacks in the Bois de la Grande, Montagne and in the vicinity of Champigneulle and the Bois de Solges.

"Our troops have taken and passed beyond Grand Pre and have improved their positions throughout the line. One thousand additional prisoners have been taken."

RUSH TO JOIN WHEN NAVY RECRUITING BEGINS AGAIN

The United States Navy mobilization station opened this morning for recruits after having been closed since Aug. 8. Under the new method of obtaining men for the navy only applicants of Sept. 12 registration will be accepted.

Applicants must either be high school graduates or have some special technical qualifications. After acceptance Lieut. Willson, mobilization officer, makes request to the Provost Warshal for their release from the national army, and they are immediately inducted.

More than 100 applicants were waiting at the mobilization station in the Calumet Building this morning. St. Louis is the mobilization point for Missouri, Kansas and Arkansas, and the district will have a limited monthly allotment.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The Daily Mail correspondent at the British front, describing a visit to Lille, said:

"All the mothers wanted their babies kissed, and one was bombarded with embraces, hand shakes, cheers and thanks.

"Imagine the better part of 100,000 people, mostly men, all crowded into one or two streets, all hysterical with joy and all intent in expressing their gratitude on being liberated.

"What has bitten into the souls of everybody was the deportations of 1916. Mothers did not know where their daughters had gone, nor what had been their fate.

"Except for a few quarters of the city, especially near the stations on the east side of the town, one would not know that Lille had been within range of hostile guns.

"What is said to be the 'supreme feat of the war at Lille,' was the successful concealment of a cow for four whole years. This cow is now being decorated to meet the British troops."

U-BOAT WOUNDS EIGHT MEN ON RETURNING TRANSPORT

Converted German Ship Escapes After Two-Hour Running Fight.

By the Associated Press.

AN ATLANTIC PORT, Oct. 19.—The homeward-bound army transport Amphion had a two hours' running fight with a German submarine 800 miles off the Atlantic coast last Saturday morning, in which eight men on the American ship were wounded, two fatally. The transport arrived here yesterday and reported that so far as those aboard could determine, the submarine was not badly damaged, if at all.

The first shots carried away the Amphion's wireless and she was unable to call for help. The naval gun crews replied to the enemy shots and the transport crowded on all steam, finally drawing away from the submarine. The transport's superstructure was riddled with shells.

After running away from the submarine, the Amphion put into an island port, where the more seriously wounded were landed. On her arrival here, the transport went to a shipyard for repairs. Names of the wounded men were not given out here. Most of them were said to have been members of the gun crews.

Amphion was formerly the North German Lloyd liner Koln and is of 7409 gross tons and has a speed of 12½ knots an hour. She was seized at Boston when this country entered the war and after being repaired by the Shipping Board was turned over to the army as a transport.

ALLIES WIN AND LOSE IN RUSSIAN BATTLES

Withdraw Under Heavy Odds Along the Dvina, but Drive Enemy Into Finland in North.

By the Associated Press.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 19.—The Don Cossack volunteer army and other detachments have surrounded the Bolsheviki forces in the northern Caucasus, says a dispatch from Kiev. The retreat of the Bolsheviki to Astrakhan and Tzaritzyn has been cut off.

By the Associated Press.

ARCHANGEL, Northern European Russia, Thursday, Oct. 17.—Allied forces on the Dvina have been withdrawn a little over six miles, in the face of an attack by greatly superior forces, which had been reinforced from Petrograd and apparently commanded by competent officers. The withdrawal was successful under a severe bombardment.

At last reports Bolshevik reinforcements were reported advancing and the allied forces were under a hail of shrapnel shells and "pompoms."

Occasionally a six-inch shell from a Bolshevik gunboat or a land battery would strike.

The positions abandoned by the allies were held for a week against greatly superior forces. The allies operating along the Dvina and Vega Rivers have been handicapped by a fall of the water, which left boats stuck on sandbars and barred progress by gunboats at critical times.

More Meatless Days—Less Uric Acid

Meatless days will do as much to relieve sickness as to help Uncle Sam. Meat is a good food, but a heavy food, and only those who do hard work or get plenty of exercise can safely eat meat two or three times a day.

Too much meat loads the blood with excess uric acid, weakens the kidneys and causes backache, rheumatic pains and nervous troubles. It puts you in danger of gravel, kidney stone or Bright's disease.

If your kidneys seem weak, change to a simple, light diet, and take Doan's Kidney Pills, the special kidney medicine so well recommended by your own townspeople.

St. Louis Experiences:

Otto Steiner, 4217 Hartford St., says: "About two years ago I was pretty badly crippled up with rheumatic pains and kidney trouble. I was confined to the house for about two weeks just able to walk about with the help of a stick. My back pained both night and day and I could get but little rest at night. I had dizzy spells, too. One of my friends told me about Doan's Kidney Pills, so I got some at the Wolff-Wilson Drug Co. They cured me completely and I have felt fine ever since."

G. M. Humphrey, 2609 Virginia Av., says: "I have suffered more or less from kidney trouble for several years. I have had occasional attacks of backache but have used a box or two of Doan's Kidney Pills at these times and have soon been relieved. I always keep Doan's on hand to use when I have any slight return of the trouble and they have never failed to give me the best of results." (Statement given May 9, 1916.) On May 15, 1917, Mr. Humphrey says: "Sometimes when I catch cold I have a slight return of the trouble but Doan's never fail to give me prompt relief."

MAN ACCUSED IN "GANG" MURDER IS SHOT TO DEATH

John Marchlewski Killed in an Alley by Several Men Who Fire 5 Bullets Into His Head and Body.

ASSAILANTS SAID TO HAVE WORN MASKS

One Informant So Asserts, but Another Failed to See Any Covering on Faces of Men Who Escape.

John Marchlewski, 23 years old, was shot and killed in an alley at the rear of 1237 North Ninth street, at 7 o'clock last night, by several men who surrounded him, fired five bullets into his head and body, and made their escape.

Two witnesses to the murder said that his assailants numbered five, but that only three of them used revolvers. According to Vincent Pivinsky, 807 O'Fallon street, the men wore masks over the lower part of their faces. Samuel Haley, 913 Biddle street, said he saw no masks. Three of the five men were in their shirt sleeves.

Marchlewski, who was known to the police as a "gangster," was at one time charged with first degree murder for the killing of Edward Madden, who was shot down at Tenth and Biddle streets, a block from where Marchlewski was killed. The only witness to the Madden murder disappeared before the trial, and as every effort to find him failed, the Circuit Attorney dismissed the case.

A month ago Marchlewski was arrested on a charge of robbing two women near Eleventh and O'Fallon streets and was out on bond in this case when he was killed. At the time he was found to be suffering from two bullet wounds in the arm and was ordered held for investigation into the murder of Charles Hoffman, a watchman, in Baden a short time before. No evidence was found linking Marchlewski with the murder. He said he got his wounds during a fight in Washington, O.

The body was taken to the morgue. The police say that Marchlewski had various addresses, the latest two having been given as 2613 North Thirteenth street and 1512 O'Fallon street.

BIG SHAKE-UP OF POLICE SEEMINGLY PART OF WEEKE CASE

tion files, and Capt. Pickel could not be reached for a statement.

Precinct 3 was the one in which were the resorts of the Ray and Cole women. The Sergeants were Silverman and Mealy.

The station record further shows that the detail remained off until Sept. 24, when it was re-established and remained on until Oct. 9, when Capt. Pickel again ordered it taken off.

"I challenge the police to produce any such letter!" exclaimed Naturalization Officer Bevington. He denied vigorously having written the letter.

Won't Discuss Entry.

Told of the entry on the blotter at the Dayton Street Station, stating that the details had been withdrawn at Bevington's request, he said:

"I will not discuss that or any phase of the case. For me to enter into a controversy with the Police Department would seriously embarrass the Government in whatever future steps there may be taken in this matter."

Statement by Board.

No statement as to the exact charge was made by the Board of Police Commissioners or by Government officials, but the Board, after adjourning yesterday evening, gave out this memorandum:

The action taken by the Board of Police Commissioners this afternoon is based on information we have and that furnished us by United States Government officials, the nature of which is such that no details can be given at this time.

Charles W. Mansur, president of the Police Board, at his home, 6183 Waterman avenue, today refused to go into details as to the charges and said: "Anything I might say would be treading on the toes of the Government."

Mansur said there would be no special meting of the board today and he could not say when formal charges would be prepared, or when further information about the charges would be made public by the board.

Chief Young at his home, 1727A Longfellow boulevard, said he had no intimation that accusations had been made against him until he was called into the board room yesterday afternoon.

As described from memory by Young the colloquy between him and President Mansur was as follows:

"Are you ready to submit your resignation?" asked Mansur. "It is the unanimous decision of the board us ask it."

"What for?" queried Young.

"Serious charges have been filed against you by the Government. Our only course is to ask if you will resign."

Charges Not Outlined.

"No. I am willing to explain anything I have done, but I want to know what the charges are."

"They are of such a serious nature they cannot be disclosed. They are serious enough to justify our action."

Young repeated that he would not "resign in the dark" and Mansur then asked for his shield. The Chief removed his shield, laid it on Mansur's desk and departed from the room.

Capt. Hess gave about the same account of what was said to him except that he quoted Mansur as saying to him: "The Government has filed complaints which practically border on disloyalty."

Sergt. Phillips was night officer in charge at the Dayton Street Station. He said today that an agent from the Naturalization Office had informed Capt. Pickel that threats had been made to injure or kill Betty Ray and Madame Cole because they were witnesses against Weeke. He said this agent declared that one was to be disfigured with acid and the other was to be shot.

Phillips said that at Capt. Pickel's direction he ordered Sergts. Silverman and Mealy to strengthen the guard about the women's houses and he supposed this had been done.

While he would not go into details, Phillips said political influence had been used in an effort to have the guard taken off or relaxed.

After the suspensions the promotion of Special Officer Harry Lemkemeier of Central District, Patrolman Eugent J. Martineau, Page boulevard District and Patrolman Thomas F. Maher, Carondelet District, to Sergeant was announced. It was said today that Lemkemeier and Martineau would fill the places of Silverman and Mealy. Maher's appointment fills a vacancy left by the death of Sergt. Aplleby, and was not a shake-up promotion.

Capt. Hess, long regarded as a "pet" of Chief Young, formerly was Captain in the Dayton street district, where the Cole and Ray women live.

Several years ago when a vice segregation order was issued, Betty Ray, in published statements, said that before the order went into effect she had been in high favor with certain police officials, particularly Capt. Hess, who had eaten meals at her house. Young was then Chief of Police.

No charges were preferred against Hess, but he was transferred to the Laclede avenue district and Capt. Pickel was sent from Carondelet to the Dayton street district. The Laclede avenue district's northern boundary is within a block of the Ray and Cole resorts.

Mayor Kiel is ex-official a member of the Police Board and a close political friend and sponsor of Weeke. He said he had received a summons to attend yesterday's Police Board meeting, but did not attend because he was not aware that any business of an unusual nature was to be transacted.

The suspended policemen will be entitled to their salaries from the time of their suspension to the time of the serving of the charges which they are to answer.

Deposed Chief, Successor and Police Captains in Shake-up

ACTING CHIEF MARTIN O'BRIEN.

CAPT. W.C. HESS. CHIEF WM. YOUNG. CAPT. PICKEL.

POLICE SHAKE-UP HAS A POLITICAL PHASE ATTACHED

For 18 Months Local Democratic Leaders Have Been Trying to Have Mansur and Fouke Removed.

There is also a political phase in the police suspensions.

Local Democratic politicians during the past 18 months have brought to bear every pressure they could to induce Gov. Gardner to remove Police Commissioners Mansur and Fouke, who were appointed over the protest of members of the Democratic City Committee and influential Democratic politicians. While it has been reported several times that the Governor had agreed to remove them, it has been understood that the commissioners refused to resign, and that the Governor preferred to attempt to placate the politicians in some other way than to go through the publicity which would attend a forcible removal of the commissioners.

Democratic politicians also have long desired the removal of Chief Young, a Republican. Commissioner Giraldin has been outspoken in his opposition to Young. Efforts in the past, however, had failed to influence Mansur and Fouke against Young.

In political circles it is stated that a change of attitude had come over some of the Police Commissioners, and that the charges filed by Naturalization Examiner Bevington against the Police Department were welcomed as affording a basis for the removal of Chief Young.

Big Negro Registration.

The recent registration for the November election has because of the unusually large number of negroes registered, aroused the Democratic organizations, both state and city, to charge that there had been gross frauds, and there have been veiled charges that the Police Department had failed to take any steps toward an investigation which the politicians said would have produced evidence of fraud.

There are on the registration books 15,803 negroes, while the largest previous negro registration was only 12,837 in 1916. Democratic politicians have asserted that with several thousand negroes gone to war from St. Louis, it would be impossible for the increase to be bona fide.

Republicans, on the other hand, say that the increase is a direct result of the negro riots in East St. Louis more than a year ago, and that thousands of negroes came to St. Louis at the time of the riots and remained here. Chairman Daley of the Democratic City Committee Thursday appealed to United States District Attorney Oliver and Circuit Attorney McDaniel to investigate the negro registration.

Work-or-Fight Order.

There also has been talk among politicians that the recent drastic "work-or-fight" order, issued by Chief Young, with the approval of the Police Board, had a political significance in that its enforcement probably would have caused the arrest of many negroes who were not in essential occupations. The order was issued after a conference of the Police Board with a Government labor investigator, and because it greatly widened the War Department's work-or-fight regulations, was rescinded before being put into effect.

NEW ACTING CHIEF ON FORCE FOR 28 YEARS

O'Brien Gained Early Reputation by "Cleaning Up" Old "Bloody Third" District.

Martin O'Brien, who is now serving as Acting Chief of Police, and who, according to the best information in police circles, will probably be made permanent Chief, is 49 years old, and was the youngest district commander in the Police Department. Six feet tall, and boasting 280 pounds of brawn, he is still of powerful physical strength. His mild and friendly disposition made him popular among the men he commanded, as they discovered he was not eager to send them before the Police Board on charges for minor infractions of the rules.

He was appointed on the force Oct. 14, 1890, and because of his great strength was assigned to the hardest beat in the old "Bloody Third," now the Carr Street District. The beat extended from Eighth to Twelfth streets, and from Morgan street to Washington avenue. On the very first night, as was the custom, a gang of rowdies gathered to "initiate" the new patrolman.

Won Reputation in Battle.

A pitched battle resulted, in which one policeman was killed, three were wounded, and several of the roughs were sent to the city hospital. O'Brien was in the thick of the fight and was the only policeman unhurt. His prowess in that engagement gave him a reputation in the neighborhood, and he walked the same beat almost without molestation for nine years.

His activity in helping "clean up" the "Bloody Third" won him a sergeantcy, and he was assigned to the Laclede Avenue District, then infested with gangs and many disorderly winerooms. O'Brien's success in solving cases and apprehending offenders won the attention of Detective Chief Desmond, who transferred him to the Detective Bureau. He remained there until 1902, when he was advanced to be a Lieutenant, and assigned to the North Market Street District. During the World's Fair in 1904 he was in charge of the Secret Service Bureau of the Police Department, with headquarters on the exposition grounds.

He was made a Captain in 1908 and placed in command in the Carondelet district, but was soon in command of the central district, the most important one in the city. For some years he was Captain of the mounted and the North Market street districts. His appointment as Acting Chief found him as commander of the Wyoming street district. He is married and has two children and lives at 4316A Farlin avenue. He is an ardent fisherman and hunter, and on fishing trips his usual companion is Police Commissioner William Giraldin.

Young First on Force in 1878.

William Young, the suspended Chief, is 62 years old. He joined the police force as a patrolman in 1878 and was made Sergeant in 1884, and Captain in 1889. In a political upheaval in the department in 1893 he resigned after being reduced to the rank of patrolman. In 1896 he rejoined the department and was restored to his former rank as Captain. Most of his service was in the Soulard Street District. He was made Chief in 1910, to succeed E. P. Creecy, who was fired during the Hadley administration.

Capt. Pickel was appointed to the force April 23, 1889, becoming a Sergeant in 1894 and a Captain in 1895. He resigned in May, 1896, but was reappointed a Captain in November of the same year. In 1898 he was appointed Assistant Chief under Chief Campbell, but in 1901 was reduced to the rank of Captain. He is 49 years old.

Capt. Hess, who is 61 years old and who had served in the police department for 43 years, has been known among policemen as Chief Young's personal friend and right-hand man. When Hess was a Lieutenant, Chief Young created for him the special office of Adjutant, in which his duty was to act as buffer for the Chief at his office. The job only lasted a week, for the Police Board decided it was a non-essential occupation. Hess joined the force on April 16, 1875, and became a Sergeant in 1889, a Lieutenant in 1907 and a Captain in 1911.

MORE THAN 60 U. S. AIRMEN IN DAYLIGHT BOMBING RAID

Attack Towns North of Our Lines at Grand Pre, and Escorting Aviators Down 10 Enemy Planes.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY NORTHWEST OF VERDUN, Friday, Oct. 18.—More than 60 American day-bombing aviators today attacked Bayonville, Buzancy and other towns north of the American line at Grand Pre. Escorting planes downed 10 German machines.

In the region of Buzancy 16 Fokkers endeavored to head off the Americans, but scouts drove them off, permitting the bombers to accomplish their mission. In the region of Verpel a nervy boche, single-handed, attempted to attack the bombers, but was quickly downed.

At various points German airmen attempted to hinder the Americans, with the result that at least 10 of them were sent down, two of these behind the American lines. Several American pursuit planes escorting the bombing machines blocked one German from returning to his own lines and drove him in the direction of St. Mihiel. One of the American aviators sent a German down near Bayonville.

GERMANS CARRIED OFF 15,000 BELGIANS IN LAST 15 DAYS

Food for Two Weeks Left in Cities of Turcoing and Roubaix.

HAVRE, Friday, Oct. 18.—The following Belgian official communication tonight says:

"Southward of the Lys the country is intact, and very well cultivated, and very many inhabitants are there. The Germans, however, took with them a great number of men below the age of 40.

"Turcoing and Roubaix are intact. There are 60,000 inhabitants at Turcoing and 65,000 at Roubaix. The municipal administrations have been taken over, and there is a sufficient food supply for 15 days. Several stations, bridges and ammunition depots had been mined."

WITH THE BRITISH FORCE IN FRANCE, Oct. 14.—During the last 15 days of their occupation the Germans took away into captivity 15,000 of the inhabitants of the city.

IRON SALESMAN SUED BY WIFE

Mrs. John McElroy Reid Jr. Wants Maintenance of $250 a Month.

Suit for a separate maintenance allowance of $250 a month was filed today by Mrs. Dolores V. Reid against John McElroy Reid Jr., to whom, she states in the petition, she was married on April 23 last.

She says he is a salesman for the Donovan Iron and Supply Co., 810 North Main street, at a salary of $6000 a year. They separated four days ago, because, Mrs. Reid alleges, her husband drank to excess, threw her clothes at her and on the floor, and once struck her, causing her nose to bleed. The couple lived at the Harlan Court Apartments, 5455-63 Delmar boulevard. Reid, according to his wife, is living at his father's home, 5026 Cates avenue.

DEWITT H. STEIGERS DIES

He Was Brother of W. C. Steigers, a Mason and an Elk.

Dewitt H. Steigers, president of the St. Louis Hide and Tallow Co., died at 8 o'clock this morning at the Missouri Baptist Hospital, where he has been for three months. He had been unconscious for 24 hours. He was 59 years of age, born in St. Louis, was unmarried and leaves one brother, W. C. Steigers, business manager of the Post-Dispatch.

He was a member of Polar Star Lodge, No. 79, A. F. and A. M.; a thirty-second degree Mason of Missouri Consistory No. 1, a noble of the Mystic Shrine of Moolah Temple, a member of the Elks, and a charter member of the Missouri Athletic Association where he had lived ever since the new building was erected. The funeral will be at 2 p. m., tomorrow at the Wagoner chapel, 3621 Olive street, under the auspices of Polar Star Lodge.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

You will know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets by their olive color. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.—ADV.

NATION TODAY MUST RAISE $1,000,000,000

Over Two Million Workers Will Try to Complete Liberty Loan Before Midnight.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Hundreds of cities and towns before noon today reported their quotas in the Fourth Liberty Loan subscription and went forward during the afternoon to pile up oversubscriptions. By noon the national managers estimated that total subscriptions had gone above $5,000,000,000.

Cleveland oversubscribed its $113,000,000 Fourth Liberty Loan quota at noon today.

Only one of the 12 Federal Reserve districts—St. Louis—has attained its quota, and only three have passed the three-quarters mark. Atlanta is the lowest, with only a little more than half.

Official figures from the Treasury Department, however, do not cover all sales for yesterday, and consequently most districts are nearer their goal than appears on the face of the returns. But a stupendous job remains to the army of 2,000,000 workers in the campaign, and they have to keep steadily at it until midnight.

Most banks over the country will remain open late tonight to receive last minute subscriptions, but there is no probability of the complete amount of the loan being known until late next week. This very fact has caused officials to impress upon people that they must not hold back subscriptions in the belief that the loan will be oversubscribed. Every dollar is needed to put the loan over the top, they declare.

In setting out to raise $6,000,000,000 America undertook the greatest war financing campaign in the history of the world. Officials said the nation had never failed in any undertaking and that it would not fail in this one.

ARRESTED FOR DISLOYAL TALK

St. Louis County Contractor Accused by Three Persons.

Charles J. Toenebochm, a building contractor, Vermont avenue and Gravois road, Afton, St. Louis County, was arrested by United States Deputy Marshals last night after three persons reported that he had made remarks derogatory to the Government.

One statement attributed to him was that "people are fools to go around selling Liberty Bonds. The Government of the United States had no right to send men to France to fight Germany. They should have waited until this country was invaded." He also is said to have stated that "the Government has no right to courtmartial or kill a deserter," and to have told one man he "should be killed if he took up arms against Germany to fight against his own relatives."

Our Men at Front Expect Support From Home, Pershing Cables

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.

THE War Department has made public the following cablegram from Gen. Pershing to Secretary McAdoo:

"The success of the fourth Liberty Loan means much to the men of the American Army who are engaged in the greatest battle of the war. The sacrifices our troops are daily making for the nation are adding glorious pages to her history. Occupying an important position on the battle-front they are forcing the barbarous enemy northward step by step, in hand-to-hand encounters, and are resolved to continue until the crimes of our enemy shall be expiated.

"Standing firmly on this resolve your sturdy sons fighting this war for freedom as firmly expect the continued support of all Americans at home.

THIEVES WERE BUT SHADOWS

Sixteen Police Go on Futile Errand to Roof of Downtown Store.

Two guests on the fifteenth floor of the Hotel Statler, looking over the city's roofs late last night, saw two men in their shirt sleeves who seemed to be trying to chop a hole in the roof of the eight-story Lambert Furniture Co. building at Tenth street and Washington avenue.

A Lieutenant and 15 Sergeants and patrolmen, responding to a call, searched the building without result. On the roof they found an intermittent electric sign casting its lights and shadows on a pigeon house in a way to give the illusion of men chopping.

ESSEN NOMINATED TO FINISH MEEKER'S TERM

Result of Deal Which Puts Newton on Republican Congressional Ticket for 2-Year Term.

Cleveland A. Newton, nominated for Congress by the Tenth (St. Louis) Congressional District Republican Committee in Clayton yesterday afternoon, to take the place of the late Representative Jacob E. Meeker, told a Post-Dispatch reporter that if elected he would give the administration of President Wilson wholehearted support on all measures connected with the winning of the war.

Newton was nominated for the full two-year term for which Meeker was a candidate for re-election, and Frederick Essen, for years Republican boss of St. Louis County, was nominated for Meeker's present unexpired term, until March 4, next, in accordance with a political agreement arranged Wednesday night by John Schmoll, chairman of the Republican City Committee, City Collector Edmond Koeln and other Republican leaders in St. Louis.

BIG STORES TO CLOSE AT 4 P. M. NEXT WEEK

Other New Restrictions Ordered to Fight Influenza and None Relaxed.

All department stores beginning Monday, will close at 4 p. m., instead of at 5:30, the present closing time, the Health Commissioner ordered today. The purpose of the order is to abate the crowding of street cars during the evening rush hours, as a precaution against the spread of influenza. The order will remain in effect until further notice.

A conference was held today between Mayor Kiel, Health Commissioner Starkloff, Director of Public Welfare Schmoll and thertrical managers, at which the suggestion as to the department stores was made by the Mayor. The theater men were told there was no possibility of the closing order being lifted next week.

A meeting of officials and physicians will be held in the Mayor's office next Thursday morning to discuss the possibility of lifting the order week after next.

Mayor Kiel said Supt. Cameron of the United Railways had told him the company was operating all the cars it could, and was handicapped by a shortage of motormen and conductors. Cameron said many men had left the company's employ upon the declaration of the War Department that street car operation was an unessential industry.

There have been 162 deaths from influenza in St. Louis since the Health Commissioner's closing order became effective, Oct. 7. Of this number 118 have occurred this week, not including 18 today up to the time of closing of the Health Commissioner's office at noon.

The number of cases since the closing order is 5345 and the total of all cases since the disease made its appearance is 5389. The number of cases that developed this week is 3515, as compared with 1834 that developed last week. There were 42 deaths last week. The number of deaths yesterday was 24 and the number of new cases 580.

In East St. Louis today 165 new cases of influenza were reported, making a total of 798. This is the largest number reported on any one day. Two deaths, bringing the total to 17, were reported.

There were 34 cases admitted to the city hospital during the 24 hours ending today at 9 a. m. Six influenza patients died during the same period. They were Elizabeth Bespersha, 4456 Easton avenue; Vera Alton, 1603 Olive street; Robbin Brodder, Kirkwood; Elizabeth Phelps, 4325 Olive street; Ruth Ratcliff, 1817 La Salle street, and Frank Savaice, 325 North Twentieth street. There now are 234 cases at the hospital.

Two new cases brought the total at the Isolation Hospital, 5600 Arsenal street, up to 85. There was one death there yesterday—William Court, 1425 North Twelfth street.

One death in the county occurred yesterday. Miss Nellie Kettler died at her home, 525 Geyer road, Kirkwood. Fourteen new cases were reported in the county, making a total of 355.

Health Commissioner Starkloff ordered the Art Museum, the Zoo and Jefferson Memorial in Forest Park closed and said the operation of the municipal bus line would be with windows open and measures to prevent overcrowding.

Col. C. E. Freeman, surgeon at Jefferson Barracks, today characterized the situation there as "very greatly improved." There were only 14 influenza admissions at the hospital there yesterday and eight deaths from pneumonia following influenza. The number of cases under treatment has fallen below 600, whereas the maximum last week was about 1200.

About 40 teachers in the public schools who have indicated a desire to serve in the emergency met at the Board of Education building today and were told that they might act as investigators to inform the Health Department of conditions in homes where there is need of nurses or help in household work.

The Health Department will continue to receive offers of the use of automobiles in transporting physicians and nurses.

Health Commissioner Starkloff and City Counselor Daues yesterday discussed a probability of compelling landlords who have failed to furnish proper heat in apartment buildings to furnish heat as a protection to those who, because of their condition, are made more susceptible to contagion if homes are chilly.

BOOK REVIEWS

"THE SILENT WATCHERS."

BENNETT COPPLESTONE'S 20-page account of the battle between the Sydney and the Emden, in his book, "The Silent Watchers," will thrill American readers. The somewhat meager narratives of that famous engagement that were given at the time did not half assuage the general curiosity. Mr. Copplestone has had access in this, as in the other descriptions of British naval actions with which the book is filled, to high sources of information, and his account can therefore be received as entirely accurate. His descriptions are graphic, lively and spirited, and so full of the tang of the sea and the intimate life of the navy that they might have been written by some naval officer who had spent his life in wardroom and on deck. The chapter on "How the Sydney Met the Emden" is worth reading, not only because of its historical value as an accurate account of a famous and important sea engagement, but also because of its picturesque and chivalrous features, its thrilling moments and the warm humanity and the sense of fair play with which the story is told. Half a dozen or more other achievements of the British navy in the present war are told with the same accuracy, breeziness and feeling of actuality. And there is also tucked in here and there, sometimes at length and sometimes in only a sentence or two, most interesting comment upon the British navy and upon the men who carry on the traditions of the service. And these men are also quoted entertainingly as to their views of their work and their opinions of their enemy. One of them, for instance, who has had some experience running down German submarines, remarks: "We used to think that the Germans were a stolid race, but they aren't. They have nerves like red-hot wires. I have seen a crew come up out of a captured submarine, trembling and shivering and crying. I suppose that frightfulness gets over them like drink or drugs or assorted debauchery." (E. P. Dutton & Co.)

"KILTIE McCOY."

BORN in Holland, Mich., of Dutch parents, the young soldier who is the subject of this lively war autobiography had trouble in enlisting at the beginning of the war. His Dutch name was such a handicap that he found it necessary to change it, so became Patrick Terrence McCoy. Enlisting in a Highland regiment, he got the nickname of "Kiltie McCoy."

There is much pleasant humor in the book and some tragic chapters. Having five sisters at home, the evidence of German bestial cruelty to French girls and women steeled this young soldier's heart against mercy to the Hun and enabled him to go through with the work of annihilation which is frequently the duty of raiders and bombers. He tells of this in most realistic fashion. His story carries the reader from the early days, when the British were caught without bombs, gas and other German-invented weapons, up to the third year, when the allies' preponderance in arms began to be evident. (Bobbs-Merrill Co.)

A DREAMER UNDER ARMS.

THE DREAMER in this case is a young Englishman of cultivated, literary tastes, who is impelled to enlist when the war broke out. How he developed from a mere dreamer into a doer and a fighter is well told by F. G. Hurrell, the author of this interesting war romance. Incidentally, the Dreamer inspires a fellow soldier to conquer in a personal fight against a common failing—drunkenness, and to become another Dreamer Under Arms. One of the most interesting chapters in the book is the Dreamer's explanation of his rather mystical religious ideal, for the benefit of his matter-of-fact fellows in the tent. The final chapters, describing the recovery from shell-shock and the union of the Dreamer with his "lady" left behind in England, will interest those who look for the love theme in a story. (E. P. Dutton & Co.

ALIENS.

THIS William McPhee person, who sails the seas as a ship's engineer or something like that and writes a book now and then, who wrote "Casuals of the Sea" and came into no mean renown thereby, has come into port now with his "Aliens," rewritten and amplified in odd moments on various voyages, and all who are looking for something excellently different in literature will rejoice that his ship came in.

It may be remembered that a version of "Aliens" appeared in London in 1914 and some copies were brought over here, but most likely it will not be remembered, because at that time "Casuals of the Sea" had not occurred and William McPhee was scarcely known except as a dependable ship's engineer with a whimsical vein of humor, who pondered the perplexities of human nature as he voyaged and haunted the second-hand book stores of every port.

When the "Casuals" came the world took notice and William McPhee was looked up and a publisher discovered the nearly-forgotten "Aliens," and prevailed upon McPhee to make it over. How he made it and made it over is told in a preface which is delightfully unlike any preface you are likely to remember ever to have read. All of us have always wondered why a preface had to be a stiltedly unnatural, conventional thing. Well, here is the answer. It doesn't have to be. The McPhee preface violates all the rules of preface writing, and for each violation we thank McPhee.

Nor is McPhee particularly mindful of rules when he gets into his "Aliens." His method of having one of the Carville brothers tell the tale of the two Carville brothers to a group of inquisitively friendly kindred "aliens" has limitations, or would have if McPhee cared for limitations, which he doesn't. He permits himself, in the person of the seafaring Carville, to philosophize and inject no end of quaint soliloquizing, which is not at all the way a story is told to a group of even inquisitively friendly listeners, but it is all right. It is the McPhee way and one can afford to forget that soliloquizing and tale telling do not belong together. And it does not matter that Caryille might have been named McPhee, so little pains does McPhee take to draw the line between himself and his fictional vehicle.

The other Carville, sinister, selfish and self-assertive, has a good deal to do with the development of the story, although he enters it only through the dominance he exercises in the background on the others, and the story is good, but the main thing is the revelation of the prodigal McPhee personality. And here is hoping that he continues to sail the seas and continues to write as suits him best, and that from time to time, but not too often, because it would not do for him to lose his leisureliness, that his ship will bring other McPhee stories to port. (Doubleday, Page & Co.)

THE GREAT CRUSADE.

EXTRACTS from speeches delivered during the war by Lloyd George, as Minister of Munitions, as Secretary of State for War and as Prime Minister have been assembled in a volume of 100 pages, not on his own initiative, as he states in his preface, but in response to many requests. He expresses the hope that his speeches in book form will help to bring home to readers the gravity of the crisis in which the democracies of the world are placed. He declares: "I have never believed that the war would be a short war, or that in some mysterious way, by negotiation or compromise, we could free Europe from the malignant military autocracy which is endeavoring to trample it into submission and moral death." There is no longer room for compromise, he declares, "between the ideals for which we and our enemies stand."

An appendix contains extracts from a previous volume of speeches. "Through Terror to Triumph." (George H. Doran Company.)

THE CHILDREN OF FRANCE.

THE story of the heroism of the children of France never will be fully told. Many of these little patriots have suffered the supreme penalty for their bravery, leaving neither track nor trace of themselves That they have disappeared is all that is known of them and thus the stories of their deeds of valor die with them. Through all such stories as have come to light, there runs a spirit of heroism that is sublime. The little stories contained in this book will make the heart of every boy and girl beat faster and bring them to a realization of their duty to their flag and country. (Henry Altemus Company.)

EXPORTER'S ENCYCLOPEDIA.

THE Exporters' Encyclopedia for 1918-1919 has been issued by the Exporters' Encyclopedia Co., Maritime Exchange Building, New York. It is a compendium of information as to shipping routs to all countries in the world, points to which through bills of lading are issued, banks and collection agencies, customs regulations, and general facts about the different countries. The information given is up-to-date, and fits present war-time trade conditions.

GREATER THAN THE GREATEST.

DRUMMOND HAMILTON has been singularly succesful in picturing Roman civilization of the thirteenth century in his book, "Greater Than the Greatest." There is recompense for the reading alone in the intensity with which he relates how the beauty of Bianca Pandone, niece of an ambitious Cardinal, is used to lure the Emperor Frederick II, in the struggle between Pope and Emperor. Her rich beauty is diffused throughout and a theme that is old becomes new in the handling which leads to an unexpected end. Particularly pleasing is the depiction of the scenes about the Vatican when a Pope is being chosen. (E. P. Dutton & Co.)

GONE ASTRAY.

TO understand the anti-democratic ruler of Germany is to understand the real enemy we are fighting. This can be accomplished partially by reading "Gone Astray." While the book does not purport to be an actual transcription of the Kaiser's dairy the author has a vision of Wilhelm's character in diary form in a way that sufficiently reveals his extraordinarily selfish and ambitious character. (John Lane Company.)

A NEW ANGLE ON LINCOLN.

PROF. EDWARD STEINER tells us how Abraham Lincoln brought his message to far away Hungary, to a lot of little boys who dwelt in a backward village. It is the sort of story which children and adults will enjoy. "Uncle Joe's Lincoln" has many delightful incidents; some rather pathetic and others extremely humorous It is clearly worth while and will make a welcome Christmas gift. (Revell.)

WITH GOD AND THE COLORS.

AN inspiring and devotional book by Mrs. Leila Atwood Foust voices what is deep in the heart of mothers who, like herself, has a son at the front. This book is good reading for all denominations, and it cannot fail to inspire, strengthen and deepen the devotional life of all mothers. (Vic Publishing Co.)

"TWENTY-ONE."

"I HAVE climbed the hill of Life and am past the summit. I suppose, and perhaps it will help those just venturing the first incline to know what I think I would do if I had to do it over again," says Dr. Frank Crane in a book, "Twenty-One." There is much sound advice to the youth, and perhaps to older men also, contained in this little book. (Doubleday, Page & Co.).

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"With no fresh overnight news, excepting further details of the German retreat from Belgium, and the collapse of the German army's fighting power, the Stock Exchange, nevertheless, opened today under the full influence of yesterday's excited optimism, and the market again gave expression to that feeling. Financial sentiment had, in fact, evidently passed beyond the phase in which new added victories or new German surrenders were necessary to stimulate the market.

"The influences of the hour were psychological, and doubts as to what the Berlin Government's next response would be, or as to whether Ludendorff would make his stand on the Meuse or on the Rhine, took an unmistakably secondary place to news of the redemption of Lille and of the King of Belgium's reception by the people of Ostend.

"Advances of a point or more, with some exceptionally sharp upward movements in highly speculative shares, occurred in the opening hour, under a volume of business quite on the scale of yesterday's. The later trading witnessed something of a halt in the rise of prices, though with little or no diminution of activity.

"That the pace of the advance should have slackened after the week's advance of 5 to 7 points in both railway and industrial shares, and with the usual uncertainty as to just what will be the character of the news between now and Monday morning, was entirely natural.

"Even in the enthusiasm of the moment, it must not be forgotten that, with the huge requirements of the Liberty Loan subscription immediately upon us, the banks will be compelled to take a position of severe restraint upon anything like a general outburst of speculation with borrowed money."

CORN 2 CENTS HIGHER IN EARLY SPECULATION HERE

Corn futures sold about 2c higher in the late speculation on the Merchants' Exchange today, owing to less optimism as regards early peace. The market also was influenced by the expectation of Government buying and prospects of bad weather.

Oats futures were firm and ½c to 1c higher, largely in sympathy with corn. War news also was a market factor.

Corn receipts here today were 74,000 bushels, against 72,000 bushels last year. Shipments, 50,000 bushels, against 7000 bushels. Oats receipts were 74,000 bushels, against 78,000 bushels. Shipments, 50,000 bushels, against 72,000 bushels.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

Cash corn was steady to a shade stronger today. Demand fairly good.

Cash oats steady and in fair demand.

LIVESTOCK

Reported by the National Livestock Commission Co., National Stockyards, Ill.

Receipts—Cattle, 1800; hogs, 2500; sheep, 600.

CATTLE—Market nominal. Prime heavy beef steers, $17.25 to $19.25; good to choice, $14 to $16.50; medium to good, $11.50 to $13.25; common to medium weighty steers, $9 to $11; common light steers, $7 to $8.50. Good to choice feeders, $9 to $11.50; common to medium feeders, $8 to $9; good to choice stockers, $8 to $9.50; common to medium stockers, $7 to $8. Good to choice stock cows, $6.50 to $7; good to choice stock heifers, $7 to $8. Choice to prime fat light yearling butcher cattle, $12 to $14; good to choice, $9 to $11; common to medium, $6.50 to $8.50. Choice to fancy heavy beef cows, $10 to $12; good to choice, $9 to $10; medium to good, $7.50 to $9; cutters, $6 to $7; canners, $5.75 to $6. Good fat beef bulls, $9.50 to $11; heavy sausage bulls, $8 to $9; light sausage bulls, $6.50 to $7.50.

HOGS—Market more active and stronger on best grade hogs, suitable for city butcher trade, but very dead and dull on all other grades, as there does not seem to be any demand here for the plain hogs. Top price was $17.70, but a fancy load of hogs would have brought more money had they been of good weight. Bulk of good hogs weighing from 170 pounds upward, $17 to $17.60; light lights, 140 to 160 pounds, $16 to $17; lighter pigs, $14 to $15.75; rough hogs, $15.50 to $15.75. There is still quite a sprinkling of hogs held here that have been here all week without bids. It is impossible to sell these plain and half-fat kinds.

SHEEP—Market nominal. Good to choice lambs, from $14.25 to $15.25; medium kinds, $13.25 to $14.25; bulk of the cull lambs, $10.50. Good fat sheep, $9.50; choppers, $7.50; bucks, $8; canners, $4.50. Good fat goats, $4 to $5; plain common kinds, $3 to $4; kids, $6.50 to $9. No real choice breeding ewes coming. Common kinds of breeders, $11 to $13. Some choice black-faced kind from $14.25 to $15.

Livestock Elsewhere

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—Hogs—Receipts 11,000; market mostly 25c to 50c lower than Friday's general trade; some mixed and packing grades showing 75c decline; early top, $18.15; practical top late, $18; butcher's, $17.25@18; light, $16.75@17.90; packing, $15.25@17; rough, $14.50@15.25; pigs, good to choice, $14.50@15.25.

Cattle—Receipts 3000; compared with a week ago, better grades of medium and western steers, 25c to 40c higner; common light, 25c lower; beef cattle and canning stock unevenly steady to 25c lower; bulls 25c to 50c lower; calves, 75c to $1 lower; feeding cattle closing 25c higher.

COTTON SLIGHTLY LOWER ON PROFIT-TAKING SALES

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Rumors that a German peace move might develop before the reopening of the market Monday increased the disposition of cotton traders to even up commitments for over Sunday, and the early trading was quiet with fluctuations irregular.

There was further covering and trade buying, however, and the tone of the market was steady, on reports that Southern holders were indifferent sellers, and on a rather unfavorable view of the weather map, showing further rains in the belt.

Trading continued quiet later in the morning but after working up to 30.95c for December and 30.45c for January, or about 6 to 10 points net higher, the market eased off a few points under realizing. December closed at 30.84c, with the general list closing steady net unchanged to 13 points lower. Cotton spot quiet; middling 32.85c.

Cotton futures closed steady: October, 31.86c; December, 30.84c; January, 30.25c; March, 30.04c; May, 29.88c.

City News in Brief

ANNOUNCEMENTS

THE FALL MEETING OF THE PRESbyterian Missionary Society, which was to have been held Oct. 25 at Webster Groves, has been postponed indefinitely on account of the influenza situation.

UNLESS THE INFLUENZA CLOSING order is lifted by Monday, the production of the fire play "The Still Alarm" at the Odeon for the benefit of the Firemen's Pension Fund will be postponed, it was announced today. The firemen-actor caste is ready to put on the play immediately after the closing order is revoked. The firemen have obtained the Odeon for the following week if it is necessary to postpone the show one week. If the closing order is lifted the middle of next week the performances will begin probably the next night after.

MAJ. MAX A. GOLDSTEIN OF 4060 Washington boulevard has been ordered to report for duty at Camp Dodge, Io., where he will have charge of a certain branch of surgery. He is a specialist on deafness, and will assist in repairing the hearing of soldiers who have suffered from shell shock. Maj. Goldstein founded the Central Institute for the Deaf here.

COMMISSIONS AS OFFICERS HAVE been awarded to the following: Major, Judge Advocate General's Department—Homer Hall, 5353 Westminster place. Captain, Medical—John Martin Bradley, 4068 Washington avenue; Carl Edward Dudley, 3600 Olive street; Richard Krang, 2732 South Thirteenth street; Aaron Levy, 4500 Olive street. ANSWERS TO QUERIES

As we have no information bureau, it is impossible to answer queries by mail or telephone

HEALTH HINTS.

HARBAUGH.—Eczema is difficult; what helps one may be useless to another. A case was cured by rubbing on crude petroleum; another by clover blossom tea. A third "cure:" Get 25c worth of oil of tar, mix it with equal parts sweet cream (be sure the cream is pure and sweet). Apply morning and evening, every day, 2 weeks. Wash affected parts about 4 times during those 2 weeks with best grade soap and be sure to boil the water. Then allow it to cool so it won't burn the patient. A fourth: Get can of pine tar at drug store; put it in a pint of water and heat it for 1 hour. Repeat this 3 times. Take 3 times a day. A wineglassful isn't too much. Take for 9 days, and repeat until cured. You will notice the tar has turned light. Use that as a salve wherever itches. A fifth: Rub on glycerine before going to bed. Health Culture says: "Tetter is the common name for eczema. There are 59 to 60 described varieties, most of them caused by bad blood, others by irritants, from the outside. Fruit and fruit juice as food will relieve eczema better than any other treatment. Avoid meat. In scaly or crusty eczema, scraping the skin with an instrument will quicken the cure. Rubbing with a towel will also help. Ointment will help but little and may even hinder the cure." Missouri Mother's cure for eczema is fresh unsalted butter mixed with powdered sulphur until the salve is of a golden hue. Someone writes to Dr. W. A. Evans: I was a victim of it from boyhood for a period of 35 years. At first the attacks were periodical, usually occurring every summer. Then the interval between attacks became shorter, till finally they were continuous. My feet, and occasionally my hands, were covered with the eruption in all its stages. It began with erythema, followed by vesicles, which soon became weeping, purulent sores that finally were covered with scabs. The disease was accompanied with intolerable itching and sometimes pain. I discovered by accident that hot water would relieve the itching. Warm water merely aggravates it. It must be hot enough to sting. I would dip my feet in it for an instant, and after a half-dozen applications the itching would completely disappear in a minute or two. At first I had to make two or three aplications in 24 hours, then less frequently. In the course of a month the disease was entirely cured. For a while there was a tendency to recur occasionally, but on the first intimation of a recurrence I at once aborted the disease by the hot water. I used no other remedy, externally or internally. I have now been free from eczema for more than 25 years." (Try cleansing oils instead of soap.)

LAW POINTS.

J. C. F.—A suit club without gambling is not unlawful.

CONSTANT READER.—We have no list of the "common-law" marriage states.

S. L.—If landlord has made demand for rent due, upon nonpayment he may at once take action to put you out. Saying to call next week is no excuse.

LONESOME FATHER.—The only advice we can give is to see a lawyer. He can suggest several causes of action, but which, depends upon the course you desire to pursue.

THANK YOU.—No understanding being had, the bond, according to fact you state, would belong to husband. Not being registered, should same come into possession of wife, she could sell it and an innocent purchaser would be protected.

WAR TALK.

WORRIED.—No.

BUD.—You may be.

W. O. D.—Newspaper carrier is essential.

X. Y. Z.—It is not compulsory that you be operated on.

WAR TALK

H. M.—You are paid for every day you serve in the army.

EMMA.—"Is there a $30 bond of the first Liberty Loan?" No.

TEX.—You may go home, and when you are called be sent from there.

ANXIOUS.—"Is U. S. mail returned when soldier is not found in France?" Yes.

CONSTANT.—"Is 34th Engineers all over in France by now?" Watch news columns.

J. D.—President Woman's Auxiliary, 12th Engineers, Mrs. Nelson Cunliff, 5819 Cates.

G. R. D.—Treatment of tuberculosis of the spine is generally that of tuberculosis anywhere. If you have it, it is surprising that the Government should have discharged you, as the Government conducts several tuberculosis hospitals and is better able to give you proper care than you are to get it for yourself. (See U. S. Employment Bureau, Pontiac Bldg.)

ARNOLD.—"If there are two sons, both within the draft age, does the Government decide which can claim exemption, on ground of dependencies, both are single, or would the 2 brothers have to decide between themselves who should make the claim; also, whether the Government would say the older or younger son should claim exemption?" Government makes no distinctions.

R. E. F.—Christmas packages for American soldiers in Siberia should be in the mails before Oc. 25. Each package should bear, besides the soldier's name and regiment, the words, "American Expeditionary Forces in Siberia," and should not weigh more than seven pounds. More than one package may be sent each soldier if desired. Soldier gifts: Safety razor, fountain pen, wrist watch, subscription to magazine or paper, tobacco, cigars, cigarette case, gum, candy, dental cream, good soap, talcum powder, writing paper, khaki colored handkerchiefs, playing cards, box of dominoes or checkers, folding cup, coin purse, pocket edition books. Woman's Section of the Navy League advises making for either soldiers or sailors Christmas Cheer Bags, 10x13 inches, of stout, washable material containing from 5 to 10 small articles to add to the comfort and pleasure of the recipient. (Talk with P. O. before sending.)

MISCELLANEOUS.

J. J. J.—Talk with music stores.

B. A. L.—Try asking Chamber of Commerce.

WALLACE.—We have this from Chief Game and Fish Warden Bradford of Illinois: The State of Illinois claims concurrent jurisdiction over the Mississippi River with Missouri and the other states along the border, and it would seem to me that unless the legal department has decided that your island is part of Missouri, that you should have an Illinois license in order to hunt. In regard to the sandbar, I presume the greater part of the year it is overflowed; consequently, it must be part of the river.

W. C.—As to fumed oak, the Scientific American Cylcopedia says: Oak is fumed by liquid ammonia, strength 880 degrees (buy at wholesale chemist's shop). Place wood in dark and airtight room, and ¼ pt. or so of ammonia, poured into a soup plate and placed upon the ground in the center of the compartment. This done, shut the entrance and secure cracks, if any, by pasted slips of paper. Remember that the ammonia does not touch the oak, but the gas that comes from it acts in a wondrous manner upon the tannic acid in that wood and browns it so deeply that a shaving or two may actually be taken off without removing the color. Depth of shade will entirely depend upon the quality of ammonia used, and the time the wood is exposed.

SALESMAN—By St. Louis manufacturer, high-grade salesman; preferably one who has sold staple line to wholesale grocery trade; state in detail past experience. Box E-273, Post-Dis.

SALESMAN—Would you prefer being located in a livable city, working a few adjacent jobbing towns, spending half your time working in your headquarters, selling a general line to the wholesale grocer, paper, hardware and drug trade? No long trips, no retail or missionary work; an opportunity to build up a trade of your own. If you are covering a large territory, selling retail trade, a manufacturer located in Middle West has an opening with an unusual future and title, traveling as an exceptional inducement to offer to high-grade men, especially men of family to whom being at home a large part of the time and building up their own trade ought to appeal. Box E-303, Post-Dispatch.

OUR products are sold to the exclusive jobber. Account draft we have several important territories open. Territories require but 33⅓% of time away from headquarters. We manufacture food containers and household necessities. Men of family, who call on retail trade spending most of time on road—who want larger field and more time at home—we should be able to interest. Box E-274, Post-Dispatch. (c99)

BILLIKENS OPPOSE M'KENDREE TODAY; OTHER TEAMS IDLE

Coach Quigley to Make Debut in "Private" Contest at Lebanon, Ill.

EXPECTS EASY VICTORY

All of Squad of 40 to Get in Game — Pikers in Practice Session.

Ernest C. Quigley's methods of gridiron strategy will receive their first demonstration in this vicinity this afternoon when St. Louis University and McKendree College collide at Lebanon, Ill. It will be the opening game of the year for the Billikens but unfortunately, is closed to the public.

McKendree, several weeks ago, received a 38 to 0 drubbing at the hands of Central High School, which at the time was one of the mild upsets of the infant 1918 football season. With this game as a basis, Coach Quigley has set his charges not for victory, but rather to determine their scoring ability.

Billikens Well Prepared.

The Billikens are entering the clash after going through one of the most intensive training periods ever known in the history of the Grand Avenue School. Quigley's methods not only differ radically from those of his predecessors, but were dealt out with relentlessness. Aside from a few minor bruises every man on the squad is in first-class physical condition, as a result of the preparatory training.

Those who have watched Quigley during the three weeks of practice have unqualifiedly endorsed his methods. Moreover, these side line experts are as a unit in declaring the new coach knows his business. Whether he has imparted his keen knowledge to the players will be only one of the many interesting matters to be determined this afternoon.

Quigley would give little information as to the methods he expects to pursue this afternoon. There is every reason to believe, however, that the Billikens will concentrate on attack for Quigley has often said the best defense is to be constantly on the offense. And more because the game is in the nature of a practice contest, it is believed the coach will use practically all of the tricks he has in his kit.

Large Squad to Make Trip.

About 40 men will make the trip to Lebanon this afternoon and Quigley is authority for the statement that about that number will participate in the game. So far as practicable, he will give each member of the squad a chance show his worth. The lineup he has selected will start the game, but there is no assurance that it will be in effect five minutes thereafter.

It is hardly fair to McKendree to draw conclusions on the merits of its eleven from the showing against Central. At that time the eleven appeared very green. With three weeks of practice, they may have improved their play. If not, St. Louis U. should rout them easily.

Don Henry will accompany the Billikens to officiate as referee this afternoon. The team will leave Eads Bridge at noon. The probable lineups:

St. Louis U.	Positions.	McKendree.
Duff	Left end	Shurtleff
O'Donnell	Left tackle	Hidian
Steinhart	Left guard	Johnston
Cokely	Center	Hunton
Dennis Godfrey	Right guard	Landis
Ignatius	Right tackle	Cox
Sobovah	Right end	Downey
Robinson Eggler	Quarterback	Akers
Connor	Left half	Sword
Higgins (Capt.)	Right half	Cantrell
Harrison Thornton	Fullback	Hall

Pikers to Practice

Because the influenza quarantine is still in effect, no games are booked here today. Washington University will utilize the afternoon in a hard practice session. The high school elevens, however, will not mobilize for practice.

BASEBALL STARS MAY PLAY IN GOLF MATCH

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 19.—A golf exhibition as a war charity benefit that will interest oldtime baseball followers may be put on here within the next three weeks. The match will be between Ernest Ford, Meadow Lake "pro," and John Kling, famous cub catcher, and Jim Watson, Mission Hills "pro" and "Kid" Nichols, the famed speed pitcher of the Boston club in the old pennant-winning days. Both Kling and Nichols shoot in the seventies and the proposed contest has created so much comment one of the clubs here probably will arrange the match.

KILBANE WILL RETIRE, HIS MANAGER ASSERTS

Jimmy Dunn of Cleveland, is authority for the statement that when Johnny Kilbane quits his duties as a boxing instructor in the army, he will retire from the ring. Dunn is the man responsible for Kilbane winning the featherweight title. He claims Kilbane has made enough out of the ring to live comfortably for the remainder of his life.

Dunn now is grooming Kid Wolfe of Cleveland to annex the featherweight title, as the competition will be open providing Kilbane retires. The present champion has been beaten but once—that a knockout by Benny Leonard, since he won the Laurels.

New Fields at Great Lakes.

GREAT LAKES, Ill., Oct.19.— Four new football fields, 160 feet in width and 300 feet long, will be built at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station to accommodate the needs of the regimental football league. Capt. William A. Moffett, the commandant, is greatly interested in athletics and appealed to the "grabs" to volunteer their services in constructing the new gridirons.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Wealthy, but on Their Uppers.

TRAVELING along on thin uppers, today, are two former pugilists whose combined earnings in the ring would probably total over $250,000. Report, which in the realm of pugilism is always heavily inflated, says that one of them, Oscar Mathew Battling Nelson, himself has been paid that much.

Ad Wolgast is the party of the second part. Dispatches from Chicago and Milwaukee of recent date carry the news that both of these men are now in want—or near it—from varying causes.

The case of Bat Nelson, who has been ill and "broke" in a Chicago hospital, was so pathetic as to attract the notice of the Chicago Boys' Club, an organization toward which Nelson was very friendly and liberal in the days of his affluence. This club, which is made up of mere youths, newsboys, voted the contents of their treasury (something over $200) to Nelson, with a promise that other assistance would be forthcoming.

This was the only sign of substantial appreciation shown toward Nelson, despite his fame and wonderful popularity.

* * *

Where Did It Go?

THAT no rush of helpers to the bedside of the Battler has yet been recorded appears to be largely due to a suspicion that there's a "hen on" in Denmark. Friends wonder what has become of all the money Nelson made, since he never was a spendthrift, and a "high old time" by Bat represented an outlay of about 30 cents.

Thrifty, cautious and rich, why is Bat poor? is a question all ask.

Nelson explains it in two ways: First, he deeded a large part of his property over to his father for, safekeeping and now his Pa won't let loose of it in Bat's hour of need.

Second: Injudicious investments and unreturned loans aggregating many thousands of dollars absorbed all his surplus.

* * *

Wolgast's case is entirely different. His property is intact; but since his confinement in a sanitarium he has not been allowed to handle his own affairs. He has been working at hard labor following his release, and his receipts from this source, plus a scant allowance made him from his holdings, represent a spending income thousands of dollars short of what he formerly was accustomed to.

It's rather tough to be a poor little rich boy, worth a fortune yet lacking the price of a silk-lined "benny."

Has Women's Play Improved?

AN Eastern tennis critic expresses the view that the past season has not only been remarkable for tennis activity, in the face of war conditions, but also for the marked increase in the quality of play by the feminine contingent.

The prevailing activity was surprising enough; but there is little evidence to show that the class of women's play, as far as championship circles goes, has advanced.

In fact, the ease which Miss Molla Bjurstedt again won the U. S. title indicates that there is no NEW talent yet ripe for championship honors. The Norse wonder was just as superior to her opposition as formerly.

The fact that two of the former champions, Miss Mary Browne and Mrs. May Sutton Bundy had both demonstrated their superiority over Miss Bjurstedt in informal matches last year, indicates that the experts developed in recent times are not even as proficient as those who formerly represented this country.

* * *

Youthful "Comers" Numerous.

THE encouraging feature, as to feminine competition, was the increase in new tournament factors among the younger set. Many new names were noted in chronicles of the various big tourneys and at least half a dozen of these belonged to girls only 17 or 18 years of age—one was only 14. These young women have a fine start and will no doubt be heard from in championship circles within the next three seasons.

* * *

Miss Gould a Prospect.

ST. LOUIS has developed one woman tennis player of outstanding merit, Miss Corinne Gould, winner of the Central States, Missouri State, City and other honors, all gained in decisive manner. In the course of her victories she defeated in unmistakable way Mrs. Adelaide Yeager of California, former Missouri champion and undoubtedly one of the best players of her sex, west ow the Mississippi.

Miss Gould is only 18 years of age and her splendid start would seem to entitle her to a hope of becoming a U. S. championship factor ere long.

At present it is the consensus opinion here that she is still too frail to stand the heavy pounding of a strong-armed foe like Miss Molla Bjurstedt or Miss Mary Browne. She weighs scarcely more than 100 pounds. Nevertheless she has worn out her opponents in all matches and outplayed them as well.

A little muscle-building ought to put the St. Louis girl in the first flight within two or three years.

ST. LOUIS ENGINEERS PLAY BASEBALL GAME IN FRANCE; SCORE, 14-8

Sergt. A. D. Glenn, attached to headquarters of the Twelfth Engineers (Ry.) a regiment which includes many St. Louis boys, has forwarded a copy of a box score of a baseball game between B and A. Regiments in France. Glenn was catcher for A. Regiment. Fancher and McDonough, both members of A Regiment team, are East St. Louis boys.

The A Regiment won the game, 14 to 8. Fancher got a two-base hit, while McDonough tore off two singles. In a letter accompanying the box score, Sergt. Glenn writes the boys of the Twelfth are "all in good spirits and collecting all the souvenirs they can get. One of them came in with a German bicycle this afternoon. He was David Massa, also a St. Louis boy."

Among the players in the game were "Gabby" Street, Walter Johnson's former battery mate, who caught a baseball thrown from the Washington monument, and Anderson, former Chicago Federal Leaguer. The box score of the baseball game follows:

Larry Quigley Coach.

CAMP FUNSTON, Kan., Oct. 18.—"Larry" Quigley, a brother of Ernest C. Quigley, the National League umpire, now coaching the football team of St. Louis University, probably will coach the divisional team here. Capt. B. V. Ogden, camp athletic director, is endeavoring to have Quigley relieved from military duty to take charge of the team. Dr. A. R. Kennedy, the former Kansas coach, who has been coaching the eleven, has gone to Chicago to direct S. A. T. C. athletics.

LOCAL STAR IS CALLED

Theodore Hauk Jr., second baseman of the Donnelly Stars, local and State municipal baseball champions, has been called to the colors and will depart for Camp Barry, Houston, Tex., today. Hauk has had minor league experience with Cedar Rapids and at present is under contract to Portland of the Coast League.

TOD SLOAN IS ROBBED

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Tod Sloan, for many years the leading jockey in the United States and England, reported to the police last night that he had been robbed of a valuable watch and chain. Matthew Hill, a negro, 17, was arrested and, according to detectives, admitted the theft.

SERGT. HANK GOWDY MAKES PLEA FOR WAR WORK CAMPAIGN FUNDS

PARIS, Oct. 19.—"Hank" Gowdy, baseball star before he donned the khaki and shevrons of an American army Sergeant, has sent a ringing message to sport fans in the United States to support the movement for maintaining the splendid, winning morale of the American Expeditionary Forces through the seven agencies combined in the United War Work campaign. Gowdy uses the Y. M. C. A. as an example of what it, the K. of C., the Salvation Army and others are doing overseas.

"When the men on your team knock home runs every time, we win," said Gowdy. "Now, pardner, that's what the Y. M. C. A. is doing in France. Its services are sure indispensable for everyone of us soldiers. Americans get behind in their championship drive for financial backing."

"Hank's" last public appearance in America was at the 1917 World's Series when he collected funds for baseballs and bats for soldiers.

RICHIE MITCHELL IN BOUT.

The 10-round bout between Sailor Richie Mitchell and Solly Freedman, Chicago lightweight, which was to have been staged at Milwaukee last Monday, but was postponed because of an influenza quarantine, will be held the first week in November, according to promoters.

Schneider an Instructor.

Leo Schneider, the local bantamweight boxer, who is now at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, has been appointed boxing instructor of the signal school. There are many big men in this division and Schneider will probably have his hands full.

Morton at Officers' Camp.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 19.—Guy Morton, pitcher with the Cleveland Americans, advised Lee Fohl, manager of the club, that he had been assigned to an officers' training camp at Camp Pike. Morton was a factor in the success of the Camp Pike baseball team.

LORD AND PANGMAN TO HOLD OFF TITLE PLAY

Algonquin Championship Final Will Not Be Played Today, It Is Stated.

Three matches have been played to date in the handicap Schlapp trophy tournament at the Algonquin Golf Club. The remaining 13 matches must be completed by tonight, as the second round is scheduled to start tomorrow. This tournament is a regular autumn feature at Algonquin.

Two final matches in the various classes of the club title event also were completed. In the special class, F. C. Klipstein won from W. E. McLeod, 3 up and 1 to play, while in class D, G. H. Chadwell was returned the winner over W. F. Gephart.

Roger E. Lord and C. C. Pangman, who are to play in the tital final, have not yet decided when they will fight it out for the honor.

Results of matches in the Schlapp trophy event:

S. F. Hill defeated D. A. Hill, 3 up and 1.

C. L. Martin won from W. F. Gephart, 3 up and 1.

B. F. Babbitt defeated J. B. Shipley, 4 up and 3.

FIRST ROUND PAIRINGS.

J. Morton vs. J. S. Trible, J. C. Jones vs. E. H. Hichee, F. Johnson vs. E. C. Klipstein, E. M. Cain vs. G. H. Chadwell, C. C. Pangman vs. G. C. Nail, H. J. McCormick vs. I. G. McNiece, L. C. Schuerman.

Besides the matches in the handicap event, it is expected that the class B championship final also will be decided today.

The only other local club which has matches scheduled for today is Midland Valley in which several semi-finals are down to be played in the different classes.

SHIPYARDS ATHLETICS ARE TO BE ABANDONED, HIGH OFFICIAL STATES

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 19.—Athletics in the shipyards of the country will be abandoned, according to Charles Piez, vice president and general manager of the Emergency Fleet Corporation.

"We are going to concentrate as much of our attention as we can on making ships after this," declared Mr. Piez. "The men have been diverted too much, I am told, by labor leaders, and the men themselves complain that they are led to waste too much time in getting ready for athletic events and too much time in recovering from them.

"I always have favored athletics in moderation, but the kind of professionalism we have had serves no useful purpose. It becomes now only a question of who can pay the highest salaries to a few stars. I feel safe in saying that the same conditions will not exist next year."

GOLF MATCHES NETTED RED CROSS MORE THAN $300,000 THIS SEASON

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—Exhibition matches in aid of the Red Cross under the auspices of the Western Golf Association, have netted $302,775 this season, according to the report of President Charles F. Thompson made public today.

President Thompson said that 82 matches had been played and that the expense had been confined to a minimum, only traveling and hotel bills being deducted from the gross receipts.

A match at Lake Shore Country Club here some time ago, which netted $30,100 cost the Red Cross fund only $2.50.

LOCAL BALL PLAYER IS REPORTED MISSING

David T. O'Connell, who before he enlisted in the marines, was a member of the St. Louis Screw Co. baseball team and the Lennox soccer team, is missing in action "over there" according to word received by his mother, Mrs. Margaret O'Connell, 5001 Ridge avenue, yesterday.

O'Connell enlisted last April and after two months training was sent to France. He was a member of the Eighteenth Company, Sixth Regiment of Marines.

TITLE BOUT IN ENGLAND.

Another championship fight between British boxers will be decided Monday night at the National Sporting Club of London. It is a 20-round contest for the featherweight title between Tancey Lee, holder of the Lord Lonsdale belt and Joe Conn, who recently was knocked out by Jimmy Wilde. The men will battle for $500 a side and a purse offered by the club.

NAVY OPENING CANCELED

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 19.—The navy's football plans to open the 1918 campaign today have again been balked. The Middies were booked to meet the eleven of the Navy Pay School, Princeton, N. J., but a wire was received yesterday that the Princetonians could not come because of influenza quarantine conditions.

Baston Now a Captain.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 19.—Friends of Elbert Baston, the former University of Minnesota football captain and well-known athletic star in the "Big Ten," were elated by the announcement that he has been promoted to Captain in the Marine Corps. Baston had been a First Lieutenant. He was wounded at Chateau-Thierry, but expects soon to be back in the firing line.

Conzelman Is Injured.

Jimmy Conzelman, the St. Louis boy, with the Great Lakes Naval Training Station football team, is again on the injured list. This time it is a sprained ankle that will keep the former Washington and St. Louis U. player on the shelf. It is the second time this season that Conzelman has been injured.

WOODEN HORSES ARE AN AID IN MILITARY WORK

Visitors at Camp Zachary Taylor have often been amused by seeing a number of grown men—soldiers and officer candidates—performing stunts on wooden horses which line the battalion areas in the parade grounds.

The exercise is useful in suppling muscles and preparing the candidates for their real riding, for every artillery officer takes an intensive course of equitation.

Since the days when Menelaus and his colleagues, the Greeks, entered Troy by means of a combination of a wooden horse and that common human failing, curiosity, the equine end of the great war game has always been more or less emphasized.

In the big school conducted by Colonel Carter and a faculty of picked specialists from all branches of the service, physical training is as much a daily aim as mental tests. That is one of the reasons that the candidates get plenty of practice mounting the wooden horses, both from the rear and the off side.

CHICAGO GETS NATIONAL AMATEUR CUE TOURNEY

The national amateur Class A 18.2 balkline championship tournament, will be played in Chicago, the latter part of next February, it has been announced by officials. Corwin Huston of Detroit, who took the title last year, has already announced that he will again compete. Another will be Percy Collins of Chicago. Entries also are expected from Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburg and New York.

LOADMAN CLAIMS TITLE.

Dick Loadman, Lockport, N. Y., bantam, who achieved fame by knocking out Johnny Ertle in three rounds several months ago, claims the bantam weight title because he cannot induce Pete Herman to get in the ring with him. He now is clamoring for a match with Frankie Burns, the Jersey bantam.

What They Are Doing in the Movi

BIGGEST WAR FILM PLANNED BY Y. M. C. A.

Pictures of Soldiers and Sailors to Be Shown in Their Own Home Towns.

The Y. M. C. A. has commissioned the Selig Polyscope Co. to film what is designed to be the world's biggest war movie. George Bainbridge, director of the enterprise, announces that nearly two million people—virtually all of them soldiers, sailors and marines—will be in the cast. The title selected for the film is "The Red Triangle." It is to be released by the Mutual Film Corporation on Oct. 20.

Included in this picture will be about 600,000 men in the training camps in the United States, as well as large bodies of men on the battlefields of Europe. The Y. M. C. A. is to use the picture in the United War Work Campaign.

A special film of two reels is being made for each locality, the main idea being to present the "home boys" at every place. To make this feat possible, nearly 100,000 feet of film was necessary.

Modern methods for best results was the idea of the Y. M. C. A. when the movies were decided upon as the best means of propaganda. Uncle Sam's fighting forces will be shown in various activities, the finals of the picture being a massed body of men in the form of a huge triangle, with a great "Y" in the center. At Camp Funston 25,000 soldiers massed for the triangle and "Y." The aim is to show each community its "Own Boys" in camp or on the battlefield.

The Selig Company announces that it has been instructed to make this picture one of the most comprehensive war studies thus far filmed.

Affiliated with the Y. M. C. A. in the great drive for funds for the welfare of the fighting men of the nation are the Y. W. C. A., the National Catholic War Council, the Jewish Welfare Board, the War Camp Community Service, the American Library Association and the Salvation Army. Activity of all these organizations, as well as their huts and buildings in the camps, will be shown in "The Red Triangle."

CARUSO IN DUAL ROLE IN FIRST PICTURE PLAY

Is Seen Singing on the Stage and Listening to Himself in a Box.

Not the least interesting and novel feature of Caruso's first Artcraft picture, "My Cousin," is embodied in the series of scenes depicting a performance at the Metropolitan Opera House. These scenes will doubtless prove attractive among all classes of audiences in all sections of the country, for who, if he has not actually attended a gala performance at the Metropolitan, has not read or heard about it and longed to see the diamond horseshoe."

The performance is "I Pagliacci," which never fails to pack the huge auditorium from the front row of the orchestra to the last seat in the family circle. Caruso is on the stage, singing the role of Canio as only he can sing it—and Caruso is sitting in the balcony, listening to Caruso sing. Rather, Tomasco Longo is listening to his cousin, Casare Caroli, sing, for these are the dual roles which Caruso plays in the photo play.

No less than five hundred extras are to be seen in the shots of the audience, at least half of them faultlessly attired in evening dress and the other half in raiment as becomes a second balcony audience. As they intently watch the great artist's every move and hang on every note, one would be certain that Caruso himself were on the stage before them if he did not know that, although the audience scenes were filmed at the Metropolitan, those showing the tenor, in clown costume, surrounded by a Metropolitan chorus of 40 people, were of necessity taken in front of the stage of the Manhattan on another day.

MAE MARSH TO STAR IN RACE TRACK DRAMA

For her next release, on November 18, Goldwyn announces that Mae Marsh will be seen in "Southern Pride," It was written by Tex Charwate, author of Geraldine Farrar's "The Turn of the Wheel" and Mabel Normand's "Peck's Bad Girl."

"Southern Pride" is a racing story and Mae Marsh is a plucky girl of Kentucky, who, in a series of crises, proves that she is a true daughter of the Blue Grass State. Apparently overwhelmed by difficulties brought on by her father's advanced age and poverty, the girl conquers many obstacles and wins happiness for both.

Although "Southern Pride" is played before a background of race course, the story does not depend upon the mettle of a horse, the excitement which is found great measure during the action of the play, it is said.

Says a Goldwyn official:

"Mae Marsh, as the heroine, does not resort to anything usually found in racetrack plays. There is no suggestion of a situation where she might masquerade as a jockey and guide a horse to victory in the manner of the old stage plays. While everything depends on winning the Saratoga Sweepstakes, it is accomplished by thoroughly consistent means.

It is directed by Emmett Flynn. Clarence Oliver is the star's leading support. Clifford Bruce, W. P. Clinton and Edwin Sturgis have leading roles, and Tammany Young, remembered for his work in Madge Kennedy's "The Service Star" and "Friend Husband," has a good part.

MARION DAVIES IN "BELLE OF NEW Y

Will Have the Role Which Edna May Famous on the Stage.

Marion Davies and her director, Julius Steger, are making the scenes next Monday of her motion picture forthcoming Select Picture "The Belle of New York." The a film adaptation of that famous Broadway musical comedy of years gone by in which Edna May created the part of the Salvation Army lassie. Miss Davies' leading man in the production will be Robert Warwick, an actor prominent both on the speaking stage and screen. Other important parts will be played by Rogers Lytton and Etienne Girardot.

In "The Belle of New York," which will succeed Marion Davies' current picture, "The Burden of Proof," Miss Davies will have the part of the Salvation Army lassie, the part that Edna May made famous in every town and hamlet in two continents.

"Everywoman's Husband," a new photoplay feature, with Gloria Swanson as star, heads the bill at the Liberty Cherokee and Iowa, today. Tomorrow Charles Ray is featured in "Playing the Game." Features for the rest of the week include: Lillian S. Stone in "Inside the Lines," today and Tuesday; Wednesday and Thursday, D. W. Griffith's "The Great Love," and Alma Rubens in "The Ghost Flower;" Friday, Annette Kellermann in "A Daughter of the Gods."

EDWIN F. SMITH JR. ACCUSED OF BIGAMY IN DIVORCE PETITION

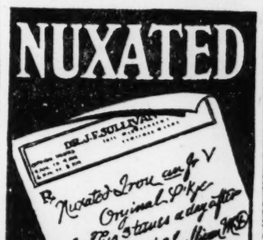

Action Begun by Woman Who Says She Married Former Foundry Company's Cashier in July.

Mrs. Ruth Smith, 19 years old, yesterday filed suit to divorce Edwin F. Smith Jr., 35 years old, alias "Franklin E. Smith," as described in her petition, alleging that when she was married to him July 27, last, he had another wife from whom he was not divorced.

The defendant was assistant secretary and cashier of the American Car and Foundry Co. He has been in New York several weeks, according to his father, Edwin F. Smith Sr., 4768 Labadie avenue, who also stated that the son was married 10 years ago to a woman who is now a patient in the State Hospital for Nervous Diseases at Farmington, Mo.

The plaintiff's maiden name also was Smith, she being the daughter of Clarence C. Smith, 5759 Westminster place, a salesman. Her attorney, James A. Ryan, said she did not learn of her husband's previous marriage until several days after her marriage to him.

NUXATED IRON

"Nuxated Iron helps put astonishing strength and energy into the veins of men and bring roses to the cheeks of pale, nervous, run-down women," says Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.) N. Y. and Westchester County Hospital. "I prescribe it regularly in cases of depleted energy, anaemia and lack of strength and endurance. There is nothing like organic iron—Nuxated Iron—to quickly enrich the blood, make beautiful, healthy women and strong, healthy, iron men. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

SPANISH INFLUENZA

What It Is and How It Should Be Treated

This disease, authorities now agree, is simply the old fashioned grip that was epidemic in 1889-90. Then it came from Russia by way of France and was given the French name la Grippe. This time it comes by way of Spain.

Spanish influenza, which appeared in Spain in May, has swept over the world in numerous epidemics as far back as history runs. Hippocrates refers to an epidemic in 412 B. C., which is regarded by many to have been influenza. Every century has had its attacks. Beginning with 1831, this country has had five epidemics, the last in 1889-90.

THE SYMPTOMS.

Grip, or influenza as it is now called, usually begins with a chill followed by aching, feverishness and sometimes nausea and dizziness, and a general feeling of weakness and depression. The temperature is from 100 to 104, and the fever usually last from three to five days. The germs attack the mucous membrane, or lining of the air passages—nose, throat and bronchial tubes—there is usually a hard cough, especially bad at night, oftentimes a sore throat or tonsilitis, and frequently all the appearances of a severe head cold.

THE TREATMENT.

Go to bed at the first symptoms—take a purgative, eat plenty of nourishing food, remain perfectly quiet and don't worry. Nature herself is the only "cure" for influenza and will throw off the attack if only you conserve your strength. A little quinine, aspirin or Dover's Powders may be given by the physician's directions to allay the aching. Always call a doctor, since the chief danger of grip is in its weakening effect on the system, which allows complications to develop. These are chiefly pneumonia and bronchitis, sometimes inflammation of the middle ear, or heart affections. For these reasons, it is very important that the patient remain in bed until his strength returns—stay in bed at least two days or more after the fever has left you, or if you are over 50 or not strong, stay in bed four days or more, according to the severity of the attack.

EXTERNAL APPLICATIONS

In order to stimulate the lining of the air passages to throw off the grip germs, to aid in loosening the phlegm and keeping the air passages open, thus making the breathing easier, Vick's VapoRub will be found effective. Hot, wet towels should be applied over the throat, chest and back between the shoulder blades to open the pores. Then VapoRub should be rubbed in over the parts until the skin is red, spread on thickly and covered with two thicknesses of hot flannel cloths. Leave the clothing loose around the neck as the heat of the body liberates the ingredients in the form of vapors.

These vapors, inhaled with each breath, carry the medication directly to the parts affected. At the same time, VapoRub is absorbed through and stimulates the skin, attracting the blood to the surface, and thus aids in relieving the congestion within.

NO OCCASION FOR PANIC.

There is no occasion for panic—influenza or grip has a very low percentage of fatalities—not over one death out of every four hundred cases, according to the N. C. Board of Health. The chief danger lies in complications arising, attacking principally, patients in a rundown condition—those who don't go to bed soon enough, or those who get up too early.

HOW TO AVOID THE DISEASE.

Evidence seems to prove that this is a germ disease, spread principally by human contact, chiefly through coughing, sneezing or spitting. So avoid persons having colds, which means avoiding crowds—common drinking cups, roller towels, etc. Keep up your bodily strength by plenty of exercise in the open air, and good food.

KEEP FREE FROM COLDS.

Above all avoid colds, as colds irritate the lining of the air passages and render them much better breeding places for the germs.

Use Vick's VapoRub at the very first sign of a cold. For a head cold, melt a little VapoRub in a spoon and inhale the vapors, or better still, use VapoRub in a bowl-in steam kettle. If this is not available, use an ordinary teakettle. Fill half full of boiling water, put in half a teaspoon of VapoRub from time to time—keep the kettle just slowly boiling and inhale the steam arising.

Note: Vick's VapoRub is the discovery of a North Carolina druggist, who found how to combine, in salve form, Menthol and Camphor with such volatile oils as Eucalyptus, Thyme, Cubebs, etc., so that when the salve is applied to the body heat, these ingredients are liberated in the form of vapors. VapoRub can be had in three sizes at all druggists. While comparatively new in certain parts of the North, it is the standard home remedy in the South and West for all forms of cold troubles—over six million jars were sold last year. VapoRub is particularly recommended for children's croup or colds, as it is externally applied and can, therefore, be used freely and often without the slightest harmful effects — ADVERTISEMENT.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Let the City Take Over the United Railways.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

All are agreed that the United Railways problem must be solved, but, judging from recent expressions of opinion, even those directly interested in the matter, as well as the newspapers, prominent business men and politicians have no plan to suggest. Therefore I suggest the following solution:

The present city officials are disqualified (no evidence of this need be cited) to prepare and conclude an arrangement. The present U. R. officials are also disqualified; for 18 years they have neither served the public by rendering efficient service nor the owners by distributing dividends. Therefore the parties chiefly interested, i. e., the public, and the stockholders, should form a small, competent committee with authority to work out the details of a solution, to be ratified by the proper processes of official action, in accord with the following plan:

The city to take over and operate the present property, paying the stockholders 6 or 7 per cent annually, less the overhead bond-interest charge.

All capital employed in betterments and all new capital employed in extensions and equipment to be represented by new and additional stock issued to the city in the proportion that its par value equals the market value of the stock now outstanding.

Whenever the existing bonded indebtedness becomes due (principal) it shall be paid by the company; and if not so paid shall be paid by the city, the stockholders to assign to the city stock at its market value equal to the amount so paid; and all of the stock to be put in trust for that contingency.

This is all of the plan (in brief) in which the U. R. will be interested. As to the operation of the plant, the plan is as follows:

A fare of 5 cents to be charged each passenger the first year, 3 cents the second year, and 2 cents the third year—thereafter free. (These charges are justified only on the ground that time is needed to adjust tax levies to meet operating expenses.) To dispense with conductors and collections of fares passengers will enter and leave at the front, depositing exact change and taking a transfer ticket if desired.

The objection to placing the control of the street railway in the hands of politicians is easily met. Just cut out the professional politicians and put workingmen who use street cars in their place and the desired results will follow.

The objection to paying operating expenses by taxation is also easily met. We use this plan to educate our children, build our streets, give us fire and police protection, etc., and find it ideal. It will cost about $3.50 per capita annually to operate free street cars, giving every passenger a seat, while under the present system it costs about $18 per capita, with 20 per cent strap-hangers. Furthermore, practically all of our taxes are passed on to the consumer of our products and goods within the selling territory of St. Louis, just as our present street car fares are passed on. By operating the street cars free we will relieve ourselves of passing on to the consumer at least $8,000,000 annually, an item materially affecting the trade of the city.

A Simple Preventive.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

You will find a solution of pure boric acid helpful in preventing and treating influenza. One tablespoon to a pint of hot water to dissolve. When cool, use once a day as a gargle, and insert in each nostril with spoon atomizer or medicine dropper. This treatment cured a case of catarrh, and saved a child having adenoids from the much dreaded knife.

Individual Soda Glasses Should Be Obligatory.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Just a few lines in regard to the closing of most all the public places, which is a great help to check the rapidly spreading disease, influenza. Why does not the city close ice cream and soda fountains, where the glasses never get washed but once a day? The glass is never more than dipped in water and then taken out again and filled and then passed along to another person. I have seen this done hundreds of times and it sure is a terrible thing, for it can spread disease germs more quickly than any other way known. Steps should be taken by the city immediately to check this habit.

I have had several years' experience in the fountain line, and I surely know how often the water glasses don't get washed.

CLIFFORD G. GUIBOR.

JUDGE ROSENFELD'S CANDIDACY.

The Post-Dispatch's argument that sound public policy should lead voters to support former Gov. Folk in order that the President may have a Democratic majority in the Senate and co-operate with him on war measures and peace settlements applies, of course, to the election of members of the House in districts where the character of the candidates invite public approval and confidence.

An opportunity to make an advantageous change is offered in the Twelfth District. Judge Rosenfeld, the Democratic candidate, is a man of capacity, character and integrity. He has an excellent record on the bench. He served in the army during the Spanish-American war. He is now a member of the District Board of Appeals for the St. Louis district, having served on the registration board and the local exemption board for the Fifth Ward. He is well fitted to represent the great business district of St. Louis.

Representative Dyer has supported the war consistently, but he voted to override the President's veto of the immigration bill, which contained the provision for the literacy test to be applied to immigrants, under which hosts of good citizens of foreign birth would have been cut off from refuge in America. Thousands of Mr. Dyer's constituents who have made good in America must condemn the measure and his vote for it. As the Post-Dispatch said at the time, it introduced a narrow and intolerant view of the American refuge for oppressed peoples and was "a denial of American principles."

Not only Democrats but independents of all parties would do well to support Judge Rosenfeld. His election would assure the district able representation and might give the President a majority in the House.

EUROPE'S SECOND GREATEST EMPIRE.

In the news telling of internal commotions and shiftings of big possibilities among the Huns, what seems to be a most significant statement is the report of a declaration of Hungarian independence. Assertion of full independence was made, it is said, in the Parliament at Budapest at the moment when plans were being made at Vienna to adopt the federal bond of union to cement the various units of the empire.

We cannot be sure as to its exact meaning, but this further sign of the dismemberment of the largest country in all Europe outside of Russia has a place of its own among the probabilities of war mapmaking. Hungary's secession would take 125,000 square miles of territory from the dominion which Emperor Francis Joseph held together with such difficulty during his lifetime. It would leave to the geographical Austria but about 26,000,000 of its present 46,000,000 of population.

But precisely the same centrifugal force which is tearing Hungary apart from the former twin kingdoms is operating for the dissolution and dismemberment of Hungary itself. The Magyars, oppressed by the Germans, have in turn been bitter oppressors. They cannot hope to retain control of the subject peoples they have held down under harshness and cruelty. The rights of the Slav peoples and the Rumanians within the Hungarian boundary have already been recognized by the victorious allies. Territory inhabited by Poles is to be sheared off to make a State as much entitled to independence as are the Magyars. Serbia is to be extended at Hungarian and Austrian expense.

The coming mapmaking must be along racial lines. There must be genuine, not a pseudo independence. The modified federal principle forced on the North German states by Berlin in 1871 would only create in the Southwest a union that would still leave too much scope to the central authority—would still sustain the hope of attaining the Mitteleuropa dream by new means and new combinations.

DAYLIGHT SAVING BY ORDINANCE.

Detroit is taking no chances on a failure in Congress to continue the daylight saving system. An ordinance has been introduced into the City Council to make the daylight-saving time the official municipal time. The benefits of the plan are not as great in winter as in summer, but the manager of the local electric utility estimates that it will save $200,000 by spring. Detroit figures that $200,000 is worth saving, irrespective of how the clocks in the rest of the country may be regulated. Wherein is the Detroit figuring faulty as applied to St. Louis?

If the Germans timed their peace advances to cause uncertainty and vacillation at the close of our Liberty Loan drive, they missed their mark. As Secretary McAdoo says, we can and must and we WILL go over the top.

1918'S REVERSALS OF 1914.

What similarities of feature as the sure end of the war draws nearer—similarities recalling the months when it began! Antwerp fell Oct. 9, 1914. The remnants of the Belgian army and the small British naval force were hard put to escape. Some never did escape. Others made a run for it to the nearest point on the Holland boundary. The rest had to huddle along routes paralleling the curving line of the coast to the west and south. The danger all the time was that the Germans, following shorter routes farther east, would head them off—close the neck of the bottle, as was said then. The Belgians won thrillingly the marshes of the Yser where they slew the Huns by the thousands.

Now it is the huddled German army that strains frantically forward toward a bottle neck. Their forces between the coast and the point of the allied wedge that is thrust rapidly north and east have the longer route. The main allied forces have the shorter route. There is an exact reversal of situations. Let us hope that at least some few of the Germans who participated in the original advance, harrying Belgian soldiers and civilians, participate also in the retreat and feel the scourge of the furies which the Belgians, now victorious, wield.

Is the desperate outflanking race after the battle of the Marne forgotten? Horse and foot were ever sent by the allies to extend their line to the west and north and get around the Germans' right flank. The Germans ever extended their line in the same direction to get around the allies' left flank. Need of extension ended when the opposing lines reached the sea. A new flanking race is on now. If the allies win it the Germans will fall back a good deal farther than they now intend.

"GIVE IT TO THE GOVERNMENT."

From the Wall Street Journal.

CHAPLAIN DAVID HUGHES of the Welsh Fusiliers told an audience at a Liberty Loan rally held recently in a town near New York of a remarkable instance of patriotism that occurred in his home town in South Wales.

"I was present there," he said, "at just such a meeting as this. It was soon after the last British war loan had been floated. My town had filled its quota, corresponding to about $900,000. The people were gathered at the public square listening to the usual patriotic speeches.

"Presently some one started to kindle a fire. A speaker got up and before long he had listeners spellbound over the issues of the war and what England and the British had done. 'My friends,' he said, 'we here in this town have done our bit. We have done more—we have sent 75 per cent of our man population to the front. We have done more than that—45 per cent of them will never come back. But that is not all we can do. There is something yet I want to ask you to do tonight. We here in this town have raised our quota for the loan. We have lent our money to the Government. Now let us GIVE it to the Government—like this.'

"With that he pulled out of his pocket a war bond and threw it into the fire. And every man, woman and child present stepped forward and threw their bonds also in the flames."

GERMANY'S CRIMINAL SILENCE

From the Christian Science Monitor.

So long as the Kaiser and the Crown Prince appeared to be successful no exception was taken to the atrocities in Belgium, in Serbia, in Greece, or in Armenia; no criticism was launched against the sinking of passenger ships at sea, with the entailed murder of women and children; nor was anything seen to be wrong in the bombardment of open cities from Zeppelins and airplanes, with all the destruction of civilian life, including women and little children, necessitated by the act. The colonies of Germany in Africa might resemble "the orchard of the King," with their fruit of corpses dangling from ropes, and men and women might go about with backs which had been beaten into jellies with sjamboks, but Germany never questioned the righteousness of the proceedings. The orchards of France might be cut down, the soil of her fields poisoned, her cities burnt, and her inhabitants driven like cattle into slavery, with their own horses and cows, but Germany raised no protest. The fault of the Kaiser, in a word, was not the crime, but the failure. What Germany failed to see was that such proceedings constitute their own doom. When a nation once begins to kick against the pricks of Principle, it is simply a question of how long it will be before it accomplishes its undoing.

JUST A MINUTE

OUR OWN WAR REVIEW.

MORE Germans than ever have passed through the paper this week, and they are making much better time than they did. Mr. Antwine, who has been forward, says it can be only a short while now until there are no Germans on any of the front pages, a prospect which everybody contemplates with immense satisfaction. We can have that part of the paper again for ordinary newspaper purposes, which have been terribly neglected the past four years. People who have been dying and otherwise coming into public notice on the back page and in other obscure parts will be able to address us from those coigns of vantage to which their prominence entitles them, and we can go ahead with those thousand and one little things which, in the aggregate make the newspaper a mirror of life. Socrates explained this very eloquently to our two-story thinkers on the editorial page during the week. He says war is not life, but is upon the contrary, a complete upsetting of all those things which are, so to speak, our expectation when we are born. Thus 'he powder works, which have nothing to do with any high concept of life, become during war more important than the university, which has everything to do with it. Glaucon asked Socrates for a definition of war, and Socrates, after thinking a moment, said it was a state of affairs in which all those things which are of the least importance become of the most importance. He asked if anyone thought the Kaiser, who made war the mainspring of his rule, had a proper notion of life. No one, of course, thought that was the case; and Fritz said he thought if the Kaiser had his hobby to choose again he would go in for something like the single tax or settlement work.

Naturally, everybody in the paper wanted to talk to the Germans and find out how they feel about the predicament into which they have gotten themselves. As far as anyone could make out, they have not gotten much further than to conclude that what they want is peace. Beyond that they seem to have almost no idea at all. One of them told Thrasymachus that so far as he was able to determine, the Germans would have to rely upon Mr. Wilson to provide them with a scheme for existence. He said Mr. Wilson had been working with these things while the Germans were shooting at marks, and otherwise defacing their perspective, and he thought they would have to ask Mr. Wilson to do this for them. As a matter of fact, Mr. Wilson has begun doing it. He gave them a good piece of his mind during the week. He told them, in substance, that they would have to begin all over again if they want to belong to the human family. Coming from the head of the house, as it were, this made a profound impression upon them. The Germans can be saved, but it is going to be hard work.

It is not easy to say how much longer the rumpus in the paper is going to last. A good many people feel that the end is near, and it wouldn't surprise anybody very much if the German gave up. The Kaiser, of course, is fired. Mr. Wilson has made it quite plain to him that he is no longer wanted in the responsible position he has been filling, and it is, perhaps, only a matter of days until he will pull his six sons out of hiding and make off to some quiet place in the paper, where they can resume their family life on some simple scale befitting the dethroned. Where that may be only goodness knows. Some people think the Kaiser should be tried and punished, but Socrates says if we let him go it will be punishment enough for him to try to find some place where he can stay longer than 30 days. It would, of course, be possible to put him on an island; but since we did that to Napoleon islands have become so fashionable that we would be doing to him only what rich people do of their own choice.

Meanwhile, his Generals are doing what they can to get the army back into the want ads, and the front of the paper is about the cheriest place one ever saw. The Weather Bird, who is badly singed, but still in the ring, sings all day. One aggravating thing about the Germans is that they continually retire in as good order as they do. They overlooked nothing in the long course of years through which they prepared for this thing, and they retreat as expertly as they have done everything else. Polemarchus, who has been watching them, says it is almost pathetic to observe with what expertness they do retreat. One cannot help thinking what they might have accomplished these past 40 years learning something worth while. He says that as an example of mis-spent efficiency the German army reminds one of the way a gasoline engine runs in a Ford.

The Turks, meantime, have given up calling on Allah, and are addressing their prayers to Mr. Wilson. The muezzins have all come around on the west side of the mosque galleries, and day after day the setting sun looks straight down their backs. Some of our more authoritative reprint thinks it is the end of Mohammedism. They point out that the Turks already have prohibition, which will make it pretty easy for Christianity to assimilate them. At any rate, it is not like trying to make them all over. The harem, of course, is a goner. We will insist upon one wife and being in at 9 o'clock, but the Turk has accepted all fourteen of our points, and there will scarcely be any trouble about little adjustments. Socrates says the Arabs will probably come back into power in that part of the world, and we can have art again. The Arabs, like our Indians, have been living on reservations and trying to keep their folk lore alive. They are still able to write books like "The Arabian Nights," and produce poetry like "The Rubiayat." They also have an architecuture that would drive people like Woolworth and Kresge crazy if it could come into vogue again, and are altogether much the best people in the Levant. Let us hope they do come back.

More next week—maybe.

FRENCH DEPUTIES GREET PREMIER WITH CHEERS

"Victory Does Not Spell Revenge," Clemenceau Tells Chamber Members.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Oct. 19.—"Our victory does not spell revenge," said Premier Clemenceau amid scenes of indescribable enthusiasm in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday. "Our victory and the victory of our allies means the liberation of civilization and liberty of human conscience."

Paris has lived historic days since the beginning of the war, but never since those dark days of August, 1914, has Paris lived such a day as this. Clemenceau looked the tiger of old when he ascended the tribune, the light of victory shining on his whole countenance.

Long before the hour set for the opening of the Chamber huge crowds had gathered, overflowing across the Seine to the Place de La Concorde. Every seat in the Chamber was occupied, except those where the French flag entwined with the crimson plush of a vacant chair showed that the former occupant had died—that he had served his country not alone in the Chamber of Deputies, but on the field of battle.

Deputies Cheer Clemenceau.

After Paul Deschanel, President of the Chamber, told of the liberation of Lille, Douai, Ostend and Bruges, and while the Deputies and audience were cheering frantically, Clemenceau arose from the Government bench and made his way to the tribune with the dust of Lille still clinging to his garments.

"Can I add anything to the patriotic words of the president of the chamber," said the premier, "except that I have just received a telegram (and he waved a blue leaflet toward the deputies) stating that Roubaix and Tourcoing have just been liberated."

There was not one discordant voice in the whole chamber, but two conspicuous Socialist members remained seated while the other deputies applauded.

"There should be but one voice here," said President Deschanel, glaring at the Socialists.

They sheepishly arose and the incident was closed.

Recollections of that other historic scene on June 5, when an irate chamber demanded explanations from this same Premier for the defeat on the Chemin des Dames came back to the correspondent and as dignified as Clemenceau was in defeat, as generous was he in victory. Across the immense Place de la Concorde great crowds were inspecting captured German guns and looking upon Gothas that shall fly no more.

JUDGE GARESCHE GRANTS RIGHT TO VOTE TO 16 PETITIONERS

Overrules Election Officials and Orders Names Put on Registration Lists—Nine Cases Pending.

The names of 16 men were ordered placed on the registration lists yesterday by Circuit Judge Garesche, on appeals from decisions of election officials in charge of the recent registration and revision. In some cases the men were not permitted to register at all and in other cases their names were stricken from the poll books on revision day.

One of the petitioners, George W. Searjeant, who, until a month ago, was British recruiting officer here, testified that when he tried to register, after showing his first citizenship papers, he was told by election officials that he could not vote on "first papers." Searjeant contended that such prohibition applied only to alien enemies. The Court ruled that he could vote. Searjeant and his wife and child have lived in St. Louis 15 months at 209 North Sixth street. He was born in London.

Others whose petitions were granted are Frederick Ahlers, Reinder Meirick, Frank Lund, George Kneale, Sam B. Jones, William James, Theodore Bosse, Filo Poarch, Carl August Berndt, Carl Duecker, Robert Aschenbreaner, George Kirchberger, William Jones, Henry Winkelmann and Eddie W. Wilkes. Most of them are natives of Germany. All foreign-born showed evidence of citizenship.

Today is the last day the Court can grant such petitions, which must have been on file not later than yesterday. There were 27 applications.

10,000 PLANES WORTH 500,000 TROOPS, BRITON CABLES U. S.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Lord Sydenham, British authority on fortifications, in a message received here today by Major-General Kenly, Director of Military Aeronautics, says:

"Impress upon your people that 10,000 airplanes at this juncture are worth more than 500,000 troops on the ground and will not require nearly so much transport. We can bring Germany to terms by air force, that is certain."

AGED EPISCOPAL SISTER DIES

Sister Eliza Fowler, 70, Well Known for Religious and Charity Zeal.

Sister Eliza Fowler, 70 years old, of the Episcopal Church, died of nephritis yesterday at St. Luke's Hospital, after an illness of two weeks. She founded the Episcopal Home for Convalescents, in St. Louis County.

Her religious and charitable zeal caused her to be well known among churchgoers. She carried on settlement work, taught a parish school, and worked constantly among the poor. She was trained in the Episcopal convent of the Sisters of St. Mary and formerly was on the staff of Christ Church Cathedral. For the last 10 years she has lived on a farm near Poplar Bluff, Mo.

247 KILLED IN ARMY LIST OF 1117 NAMES

Casualties Include 623 Wounded and 143 Missing—Total for Army Now 50,298.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The official casualty list issued today, is for the army only, and shows 1117 casualties, divided as follows: Killed in action, 247; died from wounds, 39; died of disease, 61; died from accident and other causes, 12; died from airplane accident, two; missing in action, 143; wounded severely, 394; wounded, degree undetermined, 241; wounded slightly, two.

The new total of army casualties, after a net deduction of 17, due to corrections, is 50,298. The latest Marine Corps casualty total is 3734, making an aggregate of 54,032 for both branches. The revised army totals are:

Killed in action	9,876
Died from wounds	3,274
Died of disease	2,693
Died from accident and other causes	1,088
Total deaths	17,031
Missing in action (including prisoners)	5,719

PENALIZED FOR FOOD INFRACTION

Two of Four Concerns Involved Are Closed Temporarily.

For violation of the Sunday closing order, Morris Gillmann, vegetable and fruit store, 1233 North Thirteenth street, will be closed next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday by order of the Federal Food Administration.

M. Ewinski, grocer, 1101 Madison street, will make no sales of flour next week, because of having profiteered in that item. Richard Haas, baker, 311 West Stein, will be closed Monday for making inaccurate reports to the Food Administration. The Standard Catering Co., restaurant, 212 North Seventh street, will be posted until next Tuesday for the same reason.

REVISION OF THE CITY CODE

H. K. Wagner Finishes Work on Ordinances Up to Feb. 14.

Revision of the code and ordinances of St. Louis has been completed by Hugh K. Wagner, special counsel appointed for that purpose. First copies were delivered to Register Cuendet today.

The revision contains an index to the new charter and a commentary on the city ordinances, excerpts from the State Constitution and court interpretations. The ordinances include acts of the Board of Aldermen up to Feb. 14.

Mr. Fox Almost Drowns—Part II.

IN the morning Mr. Fox felt better. He knew he would get a good scolding if he went home, but that did not matter to him. He was too sick to care for anything.

Mr. Fox crept into the house, but what was his surprise to hear his wife crying in the parlor, while Mrs. Rabbit and Mrs. Coon and Mrs. Possum were trying to comfort her.

"O, he was such a good, kind husband," said Mrs. Fox, "and he always did bring home such fat ducks and hens! And now he's gone; drowned trying to get ducks for me. O dear! O, dear! What will I do without dear Reynard?"

Mr. Fox could not believe his ears. They stuck up quite straight with surprise. He even forgot he was sick as he listened to his wife telling how fine a husband he had been.

Mr. Fox stood still a minute. Then he went to the well and drew a pail of water. First he stood in it, then he poured it over his head, and when his clothes were soaked Mr. Fox went to the door of his house and lay down in front of it and began to groan.

Pretty soon Mrs. Fox and her friends heard it and out they came. When Mrs. Fox saw her husband she gave one scream and fainted, but they soon brought her out of it, and they all helped Mr. Fox, who pretended he did not know anything at all, into the house.

"Oh, he dragged himself home, poor dear, to die near me," wailed Mrs. Fox. "Oh, get old Dr. Fox up the path as quick as you can. Perhaps he can save him."

It did not take Dr. Fox long to find out that Mr. Fox was far from dead, but, having a wife himself, he thought it well to let Mrs. Fox think he was a very sick Mr. Fox.

Mrs. Fox made chicken broth and all the neighbors brought nice things for him to eat, and he decided that being drowned and coming to life was not a bad thing for him, after all, for he was quite a hero, where before he was thought to be a lazy fellow.

When Mr. Fox was quite well old Dr. Fox asked him about the accident. "How was it you managed to get home if the boat tipped over and you were almost drowned?" he asked.

MR. FOX winked at him and said: "Hush! Come out in the barn and I will tell you how it all happened."

Mrs. Fox saw her husband and Dr. Fox going into the barn, and, being of a very inquisitive turn of mind, she waited a minute and then she went out through the cellar of the house and around at the back of the barn.

She put her ear to the crack in the boards and heard all about how Mr. Fox had been seasick and how he had not come anywhere near drowning at all. How he had come home and heard his wife weeping and telling the neighbors he was such a fine fellow, he decided to play drowned and see how it would work.

"Ha, ha, ha!" laughed Dr. Fox and Mr. Fox. "And it worked, Reynard, my boy," said Dr. Fox. "It takes something like that once in a while to make our wives appreciate us."

"You will laugh on the other side of your mouth, my fine Reynard," said Mrs. Fox as she went back to the house. "Fooled me, did you. Well, you will pay for it."

When Mr. Fox sat down to the table to eat his dinner all he found in front of him was an empty plate and cup.

"The next time you play you are dead, don't come to life," said his wife, looking at him with fire in her eyes, "and if you do not want me to tell all the neighbors how you fooled them, get out this very minute and find a big hen or turkey for supper."

"I will keep your secret as long as there is plenty of food in the pantry, but the first time I find the pantry empty I'll tell everybody how you played drowned."

Mr. Fox did not answer his wife. There was nothing for him to say. Deeds, not words, were needed to keep peace in his home, so he put on his hat and went over the hill."

When he came home he brought a big turkey and he kept the pantry so well filled that he heard Mrs. Fox bragging to her neighbor, Mrs. Coon, one day that Reynard was the most thoughtful fellow since the accident, and that he always kept her pantry well supplied.

To Clean Neckties.

GET a quart fruit jar with rubber and cover; half fill it with naphtha and put the ties in, the white ones by themselves and first of all. Having screwed the cover down tightly; shake the jar about for some minutes, when the dirt will almost be entirely removed. If necessary, repeat the process.

Smooth them out carefully, and pat any streaked or discolored places with a bit of cloth—an old handkerchief will do nicely. Then hang them in the air to dry and allow the odor to evaporate. It is best to leave them out some days. A bit of mosquito netting or cheese cloth will be required to cover them from dust or flies.

The darker ties may be put in the same naphtha. It is well to have two jars, one for first washing, another for the second dipping if necessary. The naphtha should be kept in a close-stopped bottle, and such work should always be done by daylight in a room without a fire and with open windows, if possible, as the vapor from the naphtha is highly inflammable.

To prevent lumpy gravy, use a silver fork in mixing the flour and stirring the gravy.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip B. Fouke Adopt Three French Boys to Be Their Heirs

CHILDREN SURRENDERED BY FATHER TO PROVIDE FOR THEIR FUTURE

Elderly Sculptor, Residing in New York, Is Widower and There Was No Relative to Care for Lads in Case of His Death—They Have Been in Fouke Home Several Months, but Their Position There Was Legalized Only This Week.

By Marguerite Martyn.

THE absence of Mrs. Philip Bond Fouke from war relief activities, in which formerly she was conspicuous, has become a subject of frequent remark this season. As chairman of the St. Louis Women's Committee of the Council of National Defense, with its many branches embracing almost every phase of women's war work, Mrs. Fouke was as active a leader among women as her husband, Colonel of the Home Guards and "General" of the leading Liberty Loan division, is in the men's councils.

Inquire for her these days at any of the committee headquarters—the busy Women's Liberty Loan committee rooms, for instance, where in former campaigns she was always to be found in the thick of things—and one is told: "Mrs. Fouke is always to be found at home now."

And it develops she has resigned her chairmanship, being only honorary chairman of the Defense Council at this time.

Court records made public Monday legalizing the adoption by Col. and Mrs. Fouke of three small boys, offered the interested public the first explanation of the foster-mother's retirement from public activities. And at her home, 20 Westmoreland place, Mrs. Fouke acknowledged the sudden acquisition of a family as the good and sufficient reason why she no longer has the necessary time to give to public positions of responsibility.

SHE was to be found at home that afternoon certainly, and very much at home. Before one turned in at the entrance a great deal of noise and a scene rife with action attracted attention from the garden beyond the house. Three lively youngsters, all clothed exactly alike and in smart fashion, were scrambling and screaming over some sort of athletic apparatus, and Mrs. Fouke, herself, on the ground beneath the trapeze, seemed to be directing if not taking part in a game, her voice mingling with the children's voices.

When she came in, adjusting a few hairpins, merriment still shining in her eyes, she exclaimed: "They certainly are a handful. I do not wonder their father, who is a man between 60 and 70 years of age, found them quite beyond his ability to care for and control."

Then she sketched for me the history of the event which has so transformed the Fouke household, a story which for some months has been charming their friends.

Being childless, some two years ago the Foukes decided they would supply the deficiency in their otherwise full life, in their large house and in the problem of disposing of their fortune, by adopting a family. They never considered adopting just one child, but had their hearts set upon a girl and a boy.

For a long time a diligent search was carried on for just the children one could love and accept as one's very own. There were not so many stated exactions at first, but each case presented seemed to develop some objection. Until at last one day in New York, a friend hearing of the Foukes' longings, told of this family of boys in need of mothering.

As it turned out, the case seemed to be designed and foreordained, so completely and satisfactorily did it fit the order.

THEY were the children of Georg Wagner, a Frenchman (the name being pronounced Vanyay), a sculptor living in New York since his arrival from France 15 years ago. The father speaks little English and the children speak "beautiful French," one is told.

Wagner was well along in years when he married a woman half his age. The wife, a remarkably fine character, well known to the friends who introduced the Foukes, died, leaving the three little boys now 4, 6 and 9 years old, and three girls, the eldest of whom is 16. The two younger girls were adopted by Edwin H. Anderson, manager of the New York Public Library, before the Foukes could make their acquaintance, or possibly the Fouke children might number five now instead of three. The 16-year-old sister has remained with her father.

"We were so completely pleased with our little boys we would willingly have adopted them at our first meeting, but it was thought wiser for all concerned to have them with us for a season of getting acquainted," said Mrs. Fouke. "They have been with us here and at our summer home since, and have more than fulfilled our fondest hopes of them, and there seems to have been only a continued strengthening of mutual affection all around."

The children have been rechristened in part with the family names of their new parents. Lucien Wagner, the eldest, becomes Lucien Robert Fouke. The second, who was Georg, to save confusion with a George in the family, becomes John Truman Fouke. And 4-year-old Raymond becomes Philip Raymond Fouke.

The children were more to be seen than heard that afternoon when they were being hustled upstairs to their tub after play hours, but last summer, before the story was for publication, I met them, and if the photograph is not convincing of their handsomeness and charm, I can add my testimony upon their side, even though upon that occasion Lucien was afflicted with a black eye and Raymond revealed a jaw swollen by toothache.

These temporary detractions were being accepted by Mrs. Fouke as a part of the game, and hot though it was, with a hot-water bottle, resting upon her shoulder and small Raymond nestled in her arms with his cheek against it, she was a memorable picture of contentment.

MRS. FOUKE goes with some detail into the antecedents of the children, although it is the desire and the Court's decree that they shall hereafter be held in every way to be the same as if they had been born to the Foukes, and all legal rights and duties between them and their natural father shall cease. They come of a literary and artistic family, a close relative being the Charles Wagner who wrote "The Simple Life." The mother also was artistically inclined.

The advanced age of the father, uncertainty as to the children's destiny in case of his demise, the lack of other relatives and the need of motherly care are given as obvious reasons for the father's willingness to surrender the boys.

"I would not want to impose upon my friends a family whose native stock was not as good as theirs," remarked Mrs. Fouke.

The children attend the Community School, and Mrs. Fouke says if she ever entertained the theories with regard to rearing children that are supposed to flourish especially in the minds of childless persons, she has forgotten the theories in the more urgent need of adapting herself to almost overwhelming new conditions so lively a bunch of humanity has introduced her to.

She seemed very happy in her new role and for that reason, perhaps, was willing to pass the example along.

"I think it is going to become more and more a custom for persons deprived of parenthood to take children deprived of needed care into their homes," she declared. "I hope there will be many war orphans provided for in this way. And I think the taint of suspicion so often attached to adoptions ought to be done away with, so that independent spinster women might be encouraged to adopt children."

WHY PEACH STONES ARE NEEDED

WHAT does the Government want with peach stones? This has recently been asked often. They are used as raw material for making the best grade of absorbent charcoal ever produced, and the charcoal is used in gas mask respirators for absorbing deadly gases sent over by the enemy.

Charcoal is produced by roasting wood, dried blood or other organic material, and this roasting decomposes the material into two parts, one of them gaseous, which passes off from the retorts, and one of them solid, which remains behind as charcoal. Every minutest cell of the wood and every part of a cell gave up some of the gas during the operation and thus left minute pores all through the material. Thus the wood charcoal that we know is very bulky for its weight and contains innumerable fine pores.

Now, this highly porous charcoal has a remarkable property of absorbing certain kinds of substances. Enormous quantities are used in clarifying the discoloring beet and cane juices in sugar manufacture; most drugs have to be bone-blacked before a white product can be obtained, and we have all taken charcoal tablets for the purpose of removing distressing gases arising from digestive disorders.

The application of charcoal to the gas mask then is obvious. The contaminated air passes through a layer of highly active carbon before it reaches the mouth, and the poisonous material is absorbed. It is apparent that the more active the charcoal the more the absorbing power can be packed into the small box on the front of the mask. Hence, before charcoal was used successfully in masks a very active form had to be produced. And it was found that the hard, dense, compact substance of nut shells and fruit stones formed the most condehsed and actively absorbing charcoal. The pores of the charred material are infinitely fine and numerous, and hence a given volume of the carbon will do far more work than the same volume of other kinds of charcoal.

Perhaps some other very dense plant materials, such as ebony and lignum-vitae, would also make good carbon; but for obvious reasons waste products like nut shells and fruit stones are preferred. Can Uncle Sam collect enough of such materials for what he needs, remembering that the char in the masks becomes inactive and has to be renewed? It is believed that he can if people are careful enough in saving this new object of salvage.

It must not be understood that the charcoal is used in gas masks to the exclusion of chemicals. Charcoal will not absorb all gases effectively; hence masks will still depend largely upon chemical protection. But the carbon is more easily handled than chemicals. It can be taken out and revivified by roasting, and it will probably prove to be much cheaper than most chemicals.

Don't.

For the Wash-Day Supper

Jim says he hopes he won't ever have to live in a boarding house, because since I've been using A1 Sauce he doesn't know what it means to eat commonplace hash or stew. And I don't throw away my left-over steak either—oh, dear no! I cut it in pieces for serving, and when I've got it slightly heated I pour over it a mixture of a quarter of a pound of melted butter substitute and two tablespoons of A1 sauce.

It makes a splendid sauce, too, for freshly broiled steak or fish. Jim says he knows I don't mind his bringing company home unexpectedly, even on Monday night. That A1 Sauce certainly does make "pot luck" taste like the Waldorf-Astoria.—ADV.

THE WEEKLY HEALTH TALK

Danger of Letting Up Too Soon in Fight on Influenza.

By MAX C. STARKLOFF, Health Commissioner of St. Louis.

SINCE the announcement by the Mayor declaring influenza to be prevalent and authorizing me to make rigid regulations to combat the disease, most satisfactory results have been obtained. That our death rate has been very low as compared with that of other localities where influenza has prevailed is due to the fact that the regulations promulgated have been complied with. As a general measure of health, I ask St. Louisans to continue in their cooperation with the Health Department.

Some persons have been getting restless under the restraint placed upon their business, and something of a sentiment has developed in favor of removing the restrictions that are being employed to combat influenza. I think that would be a serious mistake. It is because the business interests of this city have enthusiastically responded to this emergency call and have done everything relating to inspections, sanitation and care of employes, that conditions are as good as they are. My advice is that there be no let-up in this activity. In other cities where there has been less vigilance the results have been disastrous.

Although blessed with the favorable weather conditions, St. Louis is not out of the woods by any means. It is history that where restrictions have been lifted when epidemics first seemed to have abated and to be under control, they usually have broken out anew with more vigor than ever. I believe it would be a grievous error to call off the present order now, at the risk of being compelled to renew it. Such an eventuality would work a tenfold greater hardship on business than the continuance of the order for a time now. It also would mean a vastly increased death rate.

"I ADVISE employers to look carefully into the matter of heat and ventilation in their establishments. They can have the assistance, if they desire, of a volunteer force working under the Board of Education as advisers in matters of heat and ventilation in factories, workshops and business houses. Now is a good time to take into consideration the well-established fact that men and women cannot perform anything like a normal amount of labor in stuffy, close, unventilated rooms.

A person whose blood is not supplied with a sufficient amount of oxygen every hour will soon become weary and have to exert much more energy to accomplish his task than if he obtained the needed oxygen. Blood is the life of every living being, and oxygen is absolutely essential to the blood. When a number of persons work together in a room improperly ventilated they breathe the same air over and over, and soon the life-giving oxygen is used up to such an extent that there remains an insufficient quantity to supply each individual with his quota.

Then the workers become weary, nervous and fretful, and strain at their tasks in order to finish them. They do not know exactly what is the matter with them. The fact is, that they are air starved.

A crowded street car is a good example of what happens when the air is vitiated by lack of ventilation. Almost everybody has noticed the stuffy, odorized, repelling sensation on entering a crowded street car when the doors and transoms are all closed. All the oxygen is quickly used up and soon people begin to breathe the air coming from each other's lungs. The air is poisonous in itself and it carries innumerable germs thrown off from the different persons. Now, when you have breathed this air on a long car trip you are not up to your standard of resistance against disease attack, and the first thing you know you have a "cold," or something more serious.

WHAT happens is this: By breathing the air, deficient in oxygen and overcharged with carbon dioxide, your blood has become for the time being less pure; it has not had a chance to renew its purity when passing through the lungs and is deficient in resisting the attacks of disease germs; these germs are always present in the blood and tissues, such as the mouth, nose, throat, etc. As soon as the germs find a weak spot they begin to multiply and throw toxin into the blood stream for the purpose of fighting the corpuscles which the blood contains.

If you have "taken a cold" after such a street car trip, the influenza bacillus has "got you," because the impurities in your blood, caused by the want of oxygen, reduced your power to resist the attack of the germs.

The campaign for better ventilation, light and heat in factories, workshops and business houses is a splendid movement in the fight for health protection, and every citizen should give it his earnest support. Employers would find it a money-saving investment, for with such safeguards against sickness and physical deficiency, workmen and workwomen would return more accurate service and a longer sustained ability for labor.

CUTICURA HEALS BABY

When two months old. Was broken out with pimples on each cheek. Later spread to forehead. Red and hard and would scale over. Itched and pinned her hands down to keep her from scratching. Face awful to look at. Seeing Cuticura Soap and Ointment advertised thought I would try them as baby was getting worse. Used one cake Soap with the Ointment when she was healed.

The Gilded Man

A Romance of the Andes.

By Clifford Smyth.

HERRAN tugged at the tangles of his bushy beard. "I hear that some peons have left Bogota to fight the Yankees on the coast," he said. "But—it is nothing."

"Well, what shall we do?"

The general shrugged his shoulders. Miranda fanned himself more vigorously than ever.

"It is not important, Senor," he said impatiently. "These people are good peoples; they are not caymans."

"Perhaps it is better to wait before you go to Bogota," persisted Herran.

"Wait in the river?" angrily demanded the doctor.

"I don't believe there is any danger. I love this country," said Una. "Let's go to Bogota, Uncle Harold."

"Heavens, child!" exclaimed Mrs. Quayle tremulously, the heavy gold rings that adorned her fingers clicking together in dismay. "With all these savage, half-dressed natives about, threatening the lives of innocent Americans—and poor Mr. Parmelee down with this terrible fever"——

"I am not," feebly protested Andrew.

"Yes, that is so!" exclaimed the doctor, a joyous grin wrinkling his face. "The vieja (old lady) speak right. We stay at Honda and give this little fellow my pills."

"THERE is sense in your plan," declared Leighton. "If we can be comfortable—and safe—at Honda, we will stay until we know what is happening away from the river and until Mr. Parmelee regains his health under your treatment."

"My dear Mr. Leighton, I assure you"—— began the schoolmaster piteously.

"Don't be an estolido!" interrupted Miranda bruskly. "Soon you will be all right with my pills. This little vieja, she know—she is very wise."

Mrs. Quayle's gray ringlets bobbed deprecatingly at this generous tribute to a hitherto unsuspected sagacity on the part of their modest owner, while Andrew looked more uncomfortable and woebegone than ever.

"Doctor, you are sure that Mr. Parmelee has this miserable fever?" inquired Una anxiously.

"Senorita," declared the little man, drawing himself up impressively, "I never mistake. I have been doctor when thousand and thousand die of the calentura"——

"Good heavens! Poor, dear Mr. Parmelee!" murmured Mrs. Quayle.

"And I know," continued Miranda, ignoring the interruption. "I say he have the calentura, the malaria. You will see in the eyes—I will show to you."

Andrew, prepared for what was coming, eluded his medical tormentor, seeking safety behind the chair of the portly Leighton.

"Caramba! que estupido!" growled the doctor, balked of his prey. "Bueno," he added, fanning himself resignedly, "w shall see. In Honda you take my pills. Soon we will be there. And then it is good that everyone take my pills. I am afraid to you. I will take the care, I charge nothing for the family."

"I'll not stay in Honda," said David, breaking the silence following this wholesale offer of assistance. "I must get to Bogota as quickly as possible. Once there I can let you know if it's safe to travel into the interior."

"I good idea," assenteld Leighton.

"If it's dangerous for us, it's dangerous for you," objected Una.

"Oh, I'll take a burro loaded with the doctor's pills along with me," said David. "I know the country. I have friends in Bogota; there is no danger. And I leave you in good hands."

"So, that is settle," remarked Miranda complacently. "Very good! I take care of your families. But—you will beware, my young fellow."

"I tell you I'll have a burro load of your pills, doctor!"

"That is good. You are not estupido, like this leetle fellow with the malaria! Remember, these people are no friend just now to the Yankee."

"Everyone knows me here; I have no enemies," was the confident reply.

Honda, the picturesque little river port whence the traveler from the coast sets out on muleback for his three days' journey up the mountains to Bogota, was reached on the following day, after a 25-mile trip by rail from La Dorada, the terminus of the Magdalena steamers. Charming as Honda is architeteturally its quaint red-tiled houses nestling against a background of radiently green roothills over which the winding trails leading to the far distant capital are scarcely ever without their ascending or descending trains of jostling mules and burros, the place has something of a bad name among foreigners for its fevers. Whether or not its reputation in this respect is deserved would be hard to say. For the traveler, certainly, who has been confined for 10 days to the rude quarters provided by a river steamer, the little town comes as a welcome respite in a long if not uninteresting journey. Here, for the first time, he tastes the freedom and glamor of the Andes; and in the movement and bustle incident to setting out on the arduous pull over the primitive passes that thread their way across the mountains, there is the stimulus that comes with the promise of adventure and discovery. Honda, with its radiant sunshine, its tilted streets, its cool white buildings and low rambling hostelries hidden under a veil of flashing greenery, its sparkling little mountain stream tumbling beneath a venerable bridge that savors of the days of Spanish conquest and romance, is the link of emerald between the mighty river of the tropics and the vast highlands that stretch upward to the region if perpetual snow. As an emerald it lives ever after in the traveler's memory.

In this village—it is hardly more than that—oriental in its sensuous beauty, American of a century or two ago in character and outward aspect, the "Barcelona's" passengers were content to stay for a time. Una's delight in the picturesque little settlement was marred by the impending separation from David. It was not merely his absence that caused her unhappiness; she worried over the dangers that she believed awaited him in Bogota. Her anxiety was increased by the rumor, reaching the travelers on their arrival at La Dorado, that war had been declared between the United States and Colombia. There was no truth in this rumor; it was without offical confirmation, and ridiculed alike by Dr. Miranda, David and Leighton. But it was credited by most of the natives, whose belief was stoutly upheld by the principal American resident of Honda, an amiable patriarch who had once acted as his Government's representative and was known throughout the republic. True or false, the rumor did not add to the comfort of the travelers, and intensified Una's desire to keep David with the rest of the party until they could all set out together for Bogota.

BACHELOR GIRL REFLECTIONS

By Helen Rowland.

IT usually requires two women to take the conceit out of one man in this world—the one who refuses him and "breaks his heart" and the one who marries him and breaks his will.

A man's idea of packing to move appears to be to go around picking up the things that his wife has thrown in the wast basket and putting them back in the trunks. But then if he can "save" half a bottle of ink by slipping it in under your pink silk evening gown—well, "a bottle of ink is a bottle of ink, isn't it?"

And if men didn't descend from monkeys, most of them must have descended from Capt. Kidd, to judge by the heaps of buried treasure (odd pieces of lead pipe, bent nails and cast-off shoestrings) a wife unearths in the moving-day upheaval.

Being in love is like soaring in an airplane; being married like an unexciting trolley trip with someone ringing the bell on you every few minutes.

Patriot—A woman with a $50 bill in her pocket who can cheerfully pass seven millinery shops on her way to a Liberty Loan booth.

Eternal Feminine.

AND when the war is over, dear, I'm going to bring you home a souvenir!" said the young husband about to go "over there."

"Oh, that will be nice, dear. What will it be?" asked the sweet young thing.

"One of those German helmets, dear."

"Oh, George, I'd rather you'd bring me one of those French bonnets."—Yonkers Statesman.

Confirmation.

No woman is really satisfied with the compliments her mirror pays her unless they are reiterated by some man.

Stories of Women Spies

By Albert Peyson Terhune.

Sari Petrass, the Hungarian Dancer.

SARI (pronounced like Shahrhee") PETRASS was a gloriously beautiful Hungarian girl. She was one of the most fascinatingly graceful dancers in Europe, and she was a brilliant actress. She was, moreover, a member of an honorable old Budapest family and thus held a far higher social position than do most actresses. All of which was destined to be of great service to her.

At the time the European war began, in the summer of 1914, Sari was starring in a Hungarian theater in London.

Whether love or cash or merely her own common sense led her to espouse the cause of the allies against Germany and Austria no one seems to know. But for some reason she consented to become a spy in Great Britain's behalf, and she proceeded to make arrangements for getting her reports into the hands of certain English officers.

Almost at once, on the outbreak of the war, Sari shook the dust of London, disgustedly, from off her pretty feet and fled home to Budapest. There she had no trouble at all in convincing her fellow-countrymen that she was an ardent Hungarian patriot and that she had gladly thrown away her bright English career in order to return to her own beloved people.

IT is not at all certain that she was officially recognized as a secret agent by the British authorities. Yet she proceeded to send a series of useful reports, it is said, to highly placed British officers.

Sari had little trouble in getting material for these reports. She was trusted in Hungary. Her family was influential. She readily penetrated into the very center of the "military set."

Her beauty and superwoman charm turned the heads of many Magyar officers and her wily questioning readily induced some of them to blab of things which should have been kept secret.

Having established a means of information, Sari's next step was to find some safe way to get her spy news across the border and thence to England. Here again her charm of manner and her beauty helped her.

She would induce compatriots who were going on business trips to Switzerland to carry her letters thither and forward them from some Swiss postoffice to Great Britain.

It is almost certain that none of these dupes guessed at the nature of the innocent-looking epistles they were asked to mail.

THUS loyal Hungarians were unwittingly giving information to the enemy, and equally loyal Hungarians were mailing that information. It was a pretty scheme and one that worked well for a while. But all luck, soon or late, must turn, and Sari's luck was no exception. The very qualities which had made her such a successful spy were to prove her undoing.

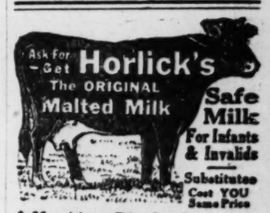

One of the men she persuaded to carry a letter across the border is credited with having been crazily in love with her. He was morbidly jealous, and he had a notion that the letter was written by Sari to someone in England whom she loved.

Jealousy overcame honor. The man opened and read the letter intrusted to his care. Then he turned it over to the authorities.

Sari was arrested and tried for high treason in giving aid to the enemies of her country. She was condemned and sentenced to death as a spy.

So swiftly and secretly was the affair rushed through that her own family are believed to have known nothing of Sari's arrest until they received word of her execution.

If a woman admits that she snores you can safely believe anything she says.—Chicago News.

PENNY ANTE—Listening In.

By Jean Knott

Her Loss.

THE great mystery play was just about to start, when the heroine rushed into the manager's office.

"What shall I do?" she cried. "Something awful has happened! My dresser has fled with the jewels I'm to wear tonight."

"What's gone?" asked the manager, very sternly.

"Oh," cried the heroine, distressedly, "the diamond tiara, the ruby necklace, and all the diamond rings and gold bracelets!"

The manager frowned and pondered.

"You must pay for this!" he said. "You were responsible for the jewel chest. I shall deduct two-and-nine pence from your week's salary."—London Tit-Bits.

A Come-Back.

"I hope you miss me dear," he sighed

"And be as lonsome as can be."

"And when you come back," she sweetly said,

"I hope you Mrs. Me."—Chaparral.

Vicar (severely): Ah, it's the old story! Unskilled man dodging work he might get.

Tramp: Unskilled, am I? You 'ave a go at dodging work these days an' see if it don't take a bit o' skill.—Transcript.

OLD FOLKS ATTENTION

Those who suffer from stiffness, stiff and swollen joints, pains in the back, side and limbs, rheumatism, lumbago, neuralgia or whatever the trouble may be that gives you pain, just apply Miller's Antiseptic Oil (known as Snake Oil) and the pains will disappear almost like magic. Thousands throughout the country are now finding instant relief in this wonderful oil remedy. Many are now using it with gratifying results. It's a doctor shop within itself, and should be in every home.

Not the Listening Kind.

MYLES: "Your wife drives her own car, doesn't she?"

Styles: "Oh, yes."

"And does she pay attention to those 'Stop, Look, Listen' signs on the railroad crossings?"

"Well, I believe she stops and looks, but say, old man, I don't think anybody or anything could make her listen."—Yonkers Statesman.

Served Him Right.

HE was trying to excuse himself to her for being a slacker. "I'd rather be a live rabbit than a dead lion," he said.

"Well," replied the girl, "you get your wish."—Boston Transcript.

Resinol surely did relieve that eczema!

Pack up some Resinol Ointment in his "old kit bag." Nothing is too good for him, and he will need it "over there" where exposure, vermin, contagions, and the exigencies of a soldier's life cause all sorts of skin irritation, itching, sore feet and suffering.

Resinol Ointment stops itching almost instantly. It heals little sores before they can become big ones. It assures skin comfort.

For sale by all dealers.

The Poor White.

A CONGRESSMAN, praising America's marvelous war production, said:

"Our war work is going to be so splendid that it will make other countries seem like poor whites beside us.

"You know the poor white story? It's a story about a man in a Mississippi village who squatted down on his porch—or gallery, as they say out there—at 7 o'clock in the morning and sat hour after hour motionless except for the steady movement of his jaws chewing niggerhead.

"Finally his wife came to the door and said in a despairing kind of voice:

"'Ain't ye goin' to work today?'

"'Nope,' said the man.

"'Why not?' she whined.

"'Ain't got time.'"—Washington Star.

Logical.

THE OFFICER: If a squad of eight men requires 10 pounds of flour, two cans of jam, eight knives, eight forks, eight spoons, etc., for 10 days, how many of each will be needed by the same squad for five days?

The Guy That Hopes to Be an Officer: Why—er—five pounds of flour, one can of jam, four knives, four forks, and four spoons.—Purple Cow.

Even That.

"WHAT'S become of the shoemaker who had a shop next door to you for so long?" asked the citizen.

"Oh, he's given up," replied the storekeeper.

"Given up everything, has he?"

"Yes; he's given up his awl."—Yonkers Statesman.

One Attractive Note.

HE: Most girls, I have found, don't apreciate real music.

Second He: Why do you say that?

He: Well, you may pick beautiful strains on a mandolin for an hour, and she won't even look out of the window, but just one honk of a horn and—out she comes!—Burr.

His View.

"I'M sick and tired of hearing about German efficiency."

"What's on your mind now?"

"I was just thinking that if we'd been preparing 40 years for war and couldn't do a better job of it than the Huns we'd be ashamed of ourselves."—Detroit Free Press.

Kleptomania may not be rated among the contagious diseases, but it is certainly taking.—Philadelphia Record.

Should Auld Acquaintance.

LITTLE GIRL: Poor Mumsy's got a headache? Poor old Mumsy!

Mother: You mustn't call mother old, dear.

Little Girl: I don't mean that you're really old, but that I've known you a long time!—London Opinion.

Shucks! She Knew.

Ella: An officer has to know how to handle men.

Stella: Huh! I know how to do that myself.—New York Sun.
